Cost of Medical Care Told to Rotary Club By Dr. R. S. Crispell

Dr. Crispell Spoke Concerning Recent Report Committee Investigating Medical Costs Since 1928—No Immediate Solution.

From the report of the committee on "The Cost of Medical Care," Dr. Raymond Crispell spoke to the members of the Kingston Rotary Club Wednesday noon, bringing out the essential points stressed in the vast survey that the topic embraces. Using the committee's findings as a basis for thought, Dr. Crispell brought his listeners a message of pertinent interest regarding a subject that has caused much discussion and controversy the past few weeks.

"The Committee on 'The Cost of Medical Care' was organized in 1928," said the speaker in beginning his address. "This committee was headed by Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, and it spent five years in intensive research on the subject of the costs of medical care. The final report has just been published, and its findings have been widely publicized and discussed. This final report of the committee has caused much controversy among members of the medical profession as well as laymen, and I will try to bring you these findings in the hope that they prove of interest."

"There are four great problems confronting human existence," continued Dr. Crispell. "They embrace the problems of providing food, clothing, shelter, and medical care for the population. Medical care is as essential as the other three, or more so, due to our humanitarian promptings as well as the dangers communicable diseases and sickness bring to the human race. If we approach the costs of medical care in the manner of a survey, we will find many things of deep interest to hold our attention and thought.

Pressing Problem

"The committee found the problem of providing satisfactory medical service to all of the people of the United States at a cost within the reach of all to be a pressing one. At the present time, many persons do not receive service which is adequate either in quantity or quality, and the costs of this service are unequally distributed. The result is a tremendous amount of preventable physical pain and mental anguish, needless deaths, social waste, and economic inefficiency. Furthermore, these conditions are for the most part unnecessary. The United States has the economic resources, the organizing ability, and the technical experience to solve this problem in a satisfactory manner.

The practice of medicine is an art which utilizes the sciences. It is also an economic activity with definite relations to the cost of living, the distribution of wealth, and the purchasing habits of the people. Over 1,000,000 people make their living in this broad field, and for their services or the commodities which they sell, the American people pay annually over three and one-half billion dollars."

The speaker went on to say that a large part of the population in their understanding of the care of the human body and of public health has not kept pace with the growth and expansion of scientific medicine. "There is and will continue to be a lag between scientific advance and popular appreciation," said Dr. Crispell.

"Regarding this matter, the committee found that the most satisfactory solution to the problem of providing adequate scientific medical service to every person according to his needs will be found only when the leaders of the public and the various professions join hands on a basis of mutual understanding, respect and confidence."

Dr. Crispell then gave an interesting summary of the present total costs of Medical Care as found by the committee.

"The people of the United States in 1929 spent $3,656,000,000 for all forms of medical service, including those services purchased indirectly through taxes and other community funds. This is approximately $30 per capita, per annum, and in 1929 constituted about 4 per cent of the money income of the country.

This expenditure is not excessive for the population as a whole in view of the national expenditures for other things. For example: About the same amount was spent for tobacco, confections, ice cream, and soft drinks. About the same amount was spent for education, for recreation, and less was spent for medical care than for household furnishings. Half as much was spent in 1929 for medical care as for automobiles and clothing, and less than one fourth as much as for rent, and about one fifth as much as for food."

Of the $3,656,000,000 spent annually for medical service, $125,000,000 is spent for the services of osteopaths, chiropractors, naturopaths and allied groups, according to the committee report," stated the speaker, "while $360,000,000 was spent on 'patent medicines.' Much of the former sum and practically all of the latter are wasted. Possibly even greater sums are wasted through inferior services rendered by some licensed physicians and dentists, and through the inadequate use of general hospitals and of the time and equipment of practitioners. In spite of all these wastes, the total amount of the national expenditures for

State Beer Board Will Organize Next Tuesday

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP).—Governor Lehman today summoned the newly-created state beer and liquor control commission to meet for organization in the executive chamber next Tuesday.

The commission, consisting of eight men and one woman, will select its own chairman, hear some of the governor's views and then proceed to formulate a program for beer and liquor control, to be made effective if congress changes the national prohibition law.

Governor Lehman set aside $10,000 in the executive budget to defray the expenses of the commissioners, who will, however, receive no salaries. The law creating the commission has empowered it to summon witnesses, documents and records and to employ counsel in connection with its study.

The commission will make its first report to the legislature by February 15, but will continue its work until the end of the present legislative session.

After issuing the call today, Governor Lehman turned his attention to a scheduled conference wiht Merwin K. Hart, of Utica, president of the New York State Economic Council, on the state budget and state taxes. Hart arrived in Albany today and is expected to bring 100 representatives of his organization and allied taxpayers' groups to the conference.

Governor Lehman announced three re-appointments as follows:

Homer Folks, of Yonkers, member of the State Public Health Council.

Henry R. Follett of Norwich, a trustee of the Supreme Court Library at Norwich.

John J. Mylod of Poughkeepsie, a trustee of the Supreme Court Library at Poughkeepsie.

Mysterious Foot Baffles Police

Question Whether It Is Foot of a Human—Police Dog Was Playing With Object When Discovered.

Sheriff John H. Saxe was faced with the first mystery of his administration Wednesday when "Chick" Kelly, who is employed at the Whelan drug store, brought a shriveled piece of bone and flesh to the sheriff's office. The first impression gained was that it was a human hand, but after an examination, conducted at a distance from the object, which had evidently been exposed to the warm rays of the sun for some time, it was decided that it could not be a human hand, and it was quite evident that it was a foot.

Sunday morning Mr. Kelly noticed his police dog playing with an object at his home, 54 Hurley avenue. On investigating he found the dog had something which looked like a shriveled human foot or hand. It was shown to a number of people and some advanced the idea that it might be the foot of some animal, perhaps a bear. Shown to a man experienced with bears, it was decided that it was not a bear's foot and the object was brought to the sheriff's office Wednesday.

There several people examined the object and it was decided that it was a foot, either human or otherwise. Apparently it was the left foot. Where the object was picked up by the dog is unknown. Mr. Kelly resides on Hurley avenue near Taylor street and back of his home some distance is a woods where the object may have been picked up by the dog.

As the object became warm at the sheriff's office those who examined it did so from a comfortable distance. This morning Sheriff Saxe decided that since the object had been found in the city it should be turned over to the city police for further examination and investigation and the foot was turned over to the police.

After an examination the police are still puzzled. There seems to be no question but that the object is the foot of someone or thing, but there is a question as to whether it is the foot of a human.

Dr. L. E. Sanford was called into consultation and after looking over the object confessed that he was stumped. He said there was no question but that it was the foot of some thing, but did not believe it was the foot of a human. If it was an animal's foot he could not name the species. The foot was in a good state of preservation.

380 CHINESE SOLDIERS FOUND FROZEN TO DEATH

Shanghai, Jan. 19 (AP)—Three hundred and eighty Chinese soldiers were reported today found frozen to death after being besieged for two weeks by Japanese troops on a southeastern Manchurian mountain top.

The report of the tragedy, printed in Chinese newspapers, turned attention in the Sino-Japanese controversy back to the original theatre of war. Activities were renewed in that area along the Manchuria coast south of Mukden, a month ago.

SAYS HIS AUTOMOBILE WAS STRUCK BY ANOTHER

Troopers Coons and Boeninger were called to investigate an automobile accident on the Saugerties road about 7 o'clock Wednesday evening, in which the Marmon sedan of Charles Browning of Henry street was thrown into the ditch and overturned. The car was towed to a garage. Browning, who escaped injury, told the troopers that as he was coming into Kingston and had just left the concrete and come on to the Macadam near the West Shore tracks, his car was struck by another car going north and forced off the road. The other driver continued on his way without stopping.

Switzerland Complains.

Tokyo, Jan. 19 (AP).—Switzerland joined with the United States today in calling upon the Japanese government for an immediate investigation of the rioting which yesterday wrecked the Singer Sewing Machine Company branch at Yokohama. A Swiss citizen owned the building in which all movable objects and valuable documents were destroyed by about 200 rioters as a climax to labor disputes. Police reported 164 persons arrested today in connection with the raid.

Three Short Plays.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational Church will present three short plays on January 31, starting at 8 p. m. Refreshments will be on sale.

Boy Scout Council Annual Meeting at Gov. Clinton Hotel

Dr. Lawrence H. Vanden Berg of New Paltz Elected President of Council for Coming Year—Various Committees Report—G. H. Glendall, Speaker.

The most representative, interesting and largely attended meeting of those connected with the work of the Boy Scout movement ever held in this section was the annual meeting of the Ulster-Greene Council, held at the Governor Clinton Hotel Wednesday evening. In addition to the officers and members of the council, troop committeemen, scoutmasters and other workers there were a number of ladies present at the dinner and meeting which followed.

Guests filed into the dining hall at 6:45 and following a verse of America, led by Paul Zucca, the Rev. C. E. Brown of Catskill offered the invocation, after which an excellent roast beef dinner was enjoyed. Features of the musical entertainment during the dinner was the solo rendition of "Till We Meet Again," sung by the Rev. C. E. Brown (with variations) and the quartet by the Rev. Mr. Brown, the Rev. Bernard Martin of Ellenville, City Judge Culloton and Dr. Sam Stern of Kingston. Outside musical effect it was commented upon as a striking example of the harmony that prevails in the work of the Boy Scouts

Following the dinner President Ashton H. Hart took charge of the meeting. He cited the fact that the attendance was the largest by quite a number of any similar meeting as proof that scouting was a living, growing thing in Ulster and Greene counties. Major Hart stated that there would be no going into details of reports, as everyone present would be given a complete copy of the reports for the year, but he asked that they be read with care as giving some indication of the answer to the question, "What is scouting and what does it do for my boy?" He felt that scouting would grow by leaps and bounds if people only understood what it really was. As giving some idea of the work he called attention to the hundreds of merit badges, in some 40 or 50 different subjects, awarded during the past year. He added, however, "Scouting must have public support if it is to reach the boys to the extent it should."

During the afternoon unusually well attended conferences, with the various department chairmen, had been held and the president called upon the different committees for a brief report of what they had discussed and any recommendations they had to make. Reports were read by the following, representing the different departments:

Committees Report.

Troop Organization — Read by George Holdridge of Catskill.

Administrative Area Chairmen—Given by the Rev. C. E. Brown of Catskill. He announced that there had been 100 per cent attendance at this conference.

Leadership Training — Read by Richard C. Kennedy of Kingston.

Reading—Given by the Rev. Bernard Martin of Ellenville.

Civic Service—Given by Former Mayor Palmer Canfield, Jr.

Educational Publicity—Given by J. T. Kaemmerlen of Catskill, who announced that he was chairman, vice-president, secretary and the 100 per cent attendance at his conference.

Camping—Given by Sam Messinger of Kingston, chairman of the committee.

Finance—Given by Myron Bedell of Saugerties. Mr. Bedell announced that his was the "most painful job of all," but added that so far as the budget was concerned the council was no worse off than a year ago. He stated, however, that in order to carry on the work of the Council as it should be carried on, even with the present facilities, $2,600 more would be needed to carry the work to January, 1934.

President Hart called attention to the fact that three years ago the Council faced a deficit of $3,000, that a pledge had been made to keep the work within the budget and that pledge had been carried out. He stated that today the Council was "solvent," but that it needed money to carry on its work.

For the Court of Honor Judge Joseph M. Fowler called attention to the need of examiners in various branches of scout activity, in order to make the work of the courts of honor efficient. This was especially true of some sections of the council. The judge then said that the court had found one scout who was entitled to a merit badge—to several merit badges in fact—for the daily good turns he had done for the Ulster-Greene Council, but who had never been so honored. He then proceeded to make good this oversight and presented to Major Hart, the retiring president, a handsome case containing a Waterman pen and pencil set. President Hart expressed his appreciation of the gift, but disclaimed credit for the work that had been done, saying that was the result of the united efforts of those present that evening.

The results of the conference held by the various troop committeemen was given by Frank H. Sprague of Ellenville and Dr. Raymond Crispell of Kingston, who stated that he was a new hand at the job, reported for the committee on health and safety.

William R. Rose of Ellenville reported for the conference of Scoutmasters, which had been attended by 21 scoutmasters from troops throughout the two counties. One

Senate Agrees To Limit Debate About Bank Bill

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—The legislative jam in the Senate over the Glass Bank Bill was broken today when an agreement was reached to limit voluntary debate after the drastic cloture had been rejected.

Defeat of the attempt to limit debate through the severe cloture rule was lost by the slimest possible margin, 58 favoring the rule and 30 being opposed, which meant failure because two-thirds was required to win.

A change of a solitary vote would have clamped on the rule.

The vote by which the Senate today rejected the Democratic sponsored cloture petition follows:

For cloture:

Republicans — Austin, Barbour, Bingham, Couzens, Dickinson, Fess, Glenn, Goldsborough, Grammer, Hastings, Johnson, Keyes, Metcalf, Patterson, Reed, Schall, Schuyler, Shortridge, Steiwar, Thomas of Idaho, Townsend, Vandenberg, Walcott and White—24.

POLICE ARREST TWO MEN FOR PUBLIC INTOXICATION

Henry Clark, 59, of Watertown, Pa., arrested for public intoxication Wednesday evening, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail when arraigned in police court today.

Alexander M. Boggs, 62, of Delhi, arrested for public intoxication paid a fine of $5.

Holdup Jewelry Shop

New York, Jan. 19 (AP).—A holdup of a jeweler's shop on the 12th floor of 198 Broadway, near Dey street, today brought seven police radio cars to the building. A room-to-room search of the building was made for the robbers who escaped with jewelry worth $5,000. Three men held up Hugo Rees, diamond merchant and jewelry manufacturer, and a man and a woman employed there. The robbers bound the victims together and fled.

Disorderly Conduct Charged.

Francis Waddock, 68, of 222 Greenkill avenue, was booked at the county jail Wednesday to await a hearing on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Sleeping Girl Still Baffles Science

Chicago, Jan. 19 (AP)—Medical science is to make another attempt to awaken Patricia Maguire, 27-year-old Oak Park, Ill., girl, asleep now more than 11 months.

If still asleep on February 15, the anniversary of the day she was stricken, there will be a blood transfusion from a person who recovered from "sleeping sickness."

Acting on the same principle as a serum or vaccine, it is hoped that the blood from a former victim of "sleeping sickness," already selected by the doctors, may aid Patricia to combat her illness.

In a little yellow-painted wood house, sandwiched in between similar dwellings, a drama is being enacted that has drawn medical attention the country over.

It is the one house the postman never passes by. Daily he leaves bundles of mail from relatives in Dallas, Tex., Joliet, Morris and La Salle, Ill. One day there was a newspaper from Glasgow, Scotland, containing a story about Patricia.

The telephone rings constantly. The doorbell buzzes although on it is a little sign: "Illness, please, solicitors don't disturb."

Stricken without warning, Patricia lapsed into unconsciousness on a Sunday morning while preparing for church. She had complained for several days before of being so "sleepy."

She has added several pounds to her weight of 120 a year ago. She is fed liquids—orange juice, eggnog, clear soups—every two hours during the day. Her body is massaged to keep the muscles from wasting away.

BANDITS INVADE HOME OF FEDERAL ATTORNEY

Los Angeles, Jan. 19 (AP).—A possibility gangland has started a concerted plan to intimidate law enforcing agencies of Los Angeles was investigated today following the holdup of Gwynn Redwine, assistant United States District Attorney, and a party of friends in his home last night.

In another recent and markedly similar robbery the home of District Attorney Buron Fitts of Los Angeles county was invaded while he was entertaining guests. Police expressed the opinion there might be some connection between the two holdups.

Both Fitts and Redwine have been active in the prosecution of criminal cases. Fitts employs a body guard.

Arrested by Federal Agents.

Joseph Bianco was arrested at the Tourists' Inn, Montgomery, Wednesday, by Kingston prohibition office investigators, who seized alleged whiskey, gin and beer. Bianco was held for arraignment before Commissioner Northrop in Newburgh on a charge of possession and sale.

Treasury Receipts.

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP).—Treasury receipts for January 17 were $4,361,574.55; expenditures, $8,368,099.40; balance, $398,194,293.59. Customs duties for 17 days of January were $10,667,759.57.

New York State Will Ask For $45,000,000 For Aid Relief Plans

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP).—New York, wealthiest and most populous of the states, today tucked its pride in its pocket and prepared to ask the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for $45,000,000 to help care for destitute New Yorkers.

With state unemployment relief funds fast dwindling, and the total number of citizens in need of assistance rapidly mounting past the 1,250,000 mark, Governor Herbert H. Lehman and the legislative leaders decided last night that the time has come to ask the Federal government for a loan.

In announcing that the application will be made within a few days, the governor made known that applications for relief are increasing at the rate of 1,000 to 1,500 each day.

New York's hope that it might be able to finance its own unemployment relief without Federal assistance went glimmering with the governor's announcement, which was accompanied by his prediction that the $15,000,000 now remaining untapped in the state's relief fund will be exhausted in the spring. Since the summer of 1931 the state has sunk $40,000,000 into welfare relief, preferring to draw on its own funds and credit rather than do as other states have done in applying for R. F. C. loans.

The decision to apply for a loan of $45,000,000, the maximum amount the state is permitted to borrow from the R. F. C., was reached at a conference of the governor and legislative leaders with officers of the State's Temporary Emergency Relief Commission.

Through the commission the state has been distributing relief funds at the rate of $4,000,000 a month. The distribution is made to communities on a 40-60 basis, the state reimbursing them for 40 per cent of their expenditures for relief of needy citizens.

"The form of our application," Governor Lehman said, "will be in accordance with the views of the governor and the legislative leaders as to what kind of declaration the governor is justified in making.

"We are all in agreement, however, on the necessity and advisability of this step."

UNITED ACTION CALLED CURE FOR AGRICULTURE

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP).—United action is the only cure that will put agriculture on the road to recovery, Governor Lehman told farmers of New York state in an address at the 101st annual dinner of the State Agricultural Society here last night.

Such action, he said, should not be confined to the sale of farm products alone but should enter the field of government "because there is scarcely a statute that does not bear on the farmer."

Declaring the plight of the farmer is a fundamental one beyond the aid of legislation, both Governor Lehman and Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies of the State Assembly said the solution of agriculture problems remains for the farmers themselves to solve.

The governor assured farmers of New York that the state government will assist and safeguard by law farmers' cooperatives but warned them the state can not be expected to set up the co-operatives.

PRESIDENT-ELECT TO VISIT WASHINGTON

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—President-elect Roosevelt comes to the National Capital today to see for himself the piled-up heap of vital domestic and international problems facing his administration.

During an overnight stay he will make an attack on them in a round of conferences which include a meeting with President Hoover at the White House at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

Soon after his arrival at 3:15 p. m. today a steady stream of Democratic leaders in Congress will call on him to outline the legislative situation and lay plans for an extra session which probably will be called between April 10 and 17.

CONGRESS EXPECTED TO AID THE FARMER

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP).—The farmer facing the loss of his home because he cannot pay mortgage installments or taxes is one of the chief concerns of Congress.

The plight of the farmer as told in dispatches from a score of states—principally in the west and south—has resulted in bills designed to aid him before it is too late.

Whatever may be in store for the "domestic allotment" price boosting bill, there is no question of a determination among senators and representatives to act before the present session ends to place Federal credit in the rural sections.

Our Growing Population

The following births have been reported to the board of health:

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Anderson of Otis avenue, a daughter, Starr Rae, at Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Scheid of 162 Wrentham street, a son, John William, at Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Haines of 104 Wilbur avenue, a daughter, Katherine Cecelia.

Year's Work Reviewed at Benedictine Hospital

The annual staff meeting of the Benedictine Hospital was held on Tuesday evening, January 17. A large attendance of the staff was present and declared that it was one of the most interesting meetings they had ever attended. An unusual honor was conferred on the staff by the presence of Mayor Carey, who expressed his delight at being present at this, the annual meeting of the Benedictine staff. The mayor, after discussing the city's great problem of present unemployment, said that the present administration would give its fullest cooperation in caring for and returning to health the sick of the city. Following the executive session dinner was served by the Sisters. The Very Rev. John Stanley, dean, president of the institution, presided and read the statistical and financial reports of the year. Annual reports were as follows:

Partial Annual Report of Boy Scout Council

Following is a partial report of the Ulster-Greene Council Boy Scouts of America for 1932:

To the Members of the Ulster-Greene Council Boy Scouts of America.

Gentlemen:

Attached hereto is a partial report of the activities of the Ulster-Greene Council, Boy Scouts of America, for the year 1932. I would urge that you read this through carefully in order to get a complete picture of what the Boy Scout work means in these two counties. It is the report of a piece of social service, so far as I know unrivaled in its field, of a far reaching significance, sometimes perhaps not so completely understood by the public or by the men engaged in it as it should be.

Of particular interest is the report of the Troop Organization committee showing a 29 per cent increase during the past difficult year, bringing the number of boys reached up to 659. This represents a growth of approximately 60 per cent in the past three years, with not only no increase in the budget, but with an actual decrease in operating expenses of approximately $2,900 per year.

When this is viewed in the light of the report of the Court of Honor showing 542 Merit Badges awarded in 58 different lines of endeavor representing an actual step in the practical training of that number of boys accomplished, the broad way in which this movement touches the lives of boys begins to be apparent. Please read that list of merit badge awards and see for yourself the possibilities in Scouting of finding and developing the latent ability of a boy. This total number represents over double the 1931 figures.

The report of the Camping Committee confirms the wisdom of the Executive Board in changing the camp site last summer, showing as it does an increase of 32 per cent in attendance over 1931.

The Leadership Training committee points to the need of more effort on the part of our men to prepare themselves to bear properly the responsibilities they have voluntarily assumed in undertaking Scout work. The Council offers the schools and they should be met with a better attendance on the part of all Scouters.

Some progress has been made toward guiding the reading of boys, but much still remains to be done in that field as the report of the Reading Committee shows.

Of finance it can be said with justifiable pride that your Council has kept within its budget, although that budget was again reduced beyond what we believed necessary for 100 per cent Scouting. However we are out of debt and face a coming year with the confident belief that public support will be forthcoming to continue this work on the continually ascending scale of achievement which has characterized it in the past. This public support can only be counted upon if every man engaged in Scout work makes it his duty to tell others what the movement really represents, and what it

You can see right off the bat that this is the common-sense way to take a laxative. Because it's a chewing gum, Feen-a-mint is as pleasant a medicine as you could want. But that's not all. The chewing insures even distribution throughout the system. That's essential for thorough yet gentle action. No pills—no griping. Olive Bridge Odd Fellows Installation

West Shokan, Jan. 18—Saturday evening, January 14, marked one of the most notable events ever held in the history of Shokan I. O. O. F. Lodge, No. 451. The double program included installation of officers and the reception tendered golden anniversary members. The attendance was exceptionally large, approximately 150 being present, including prominent delegations from various lodges about Ulster District.

The lodge was called to order at 7:45 by the outgoing noble grand, Clifford B. Donahue. Routine business was conducted with dispatch until the good of the order, which was given over to the ceremonies of the evening. At this time the noble grand stated that he wished to assure all present that Shokan Lodge extended a most cordial welcome, that he desired to thank the lodge members and his staff of officers for the loyal cooperation given during his term of office, and of the feeling of regret which overcame him on his last night as the presiding officer of good old Shokan Lodge. And to his successor in office he wished the greatest measure of success. He hoped that at some future time he might again be privileged to serve in this high position of honor. At this time there were also brief fitting assurances of welcome on the part of Past District Deputies Arthur E. Trowbridge and Virgil C. Gordon.

The presiding deputy, Jacob H. Rogers, of Catskill Mountain Lodge, No. 487, and the members of his staff now retired from the room for the formal re-entry and installation ceremonies. Past District Deputy Henry A. Lamoree acted as marshal. The installation was accomplished in a most impressive and dignified manner and brought the highest commendation from all present. The following group, all high caliber and capable members, shows the excellent choice in the selective and appointive offices as follows: Clifford B. Donahue, retiring as acting past grand; noble grand, Edmund C. Burgher; vice grand, James Gordon; recording secretary, P. G. Harlow McLean; financial secretary, P. G. John Jordan; treasurer, Past District Deputy Virgil C. Gordon; warden, P. G. Alonzo Davis; conductor, P. G. Oscar Dudley; right supporter noble grand, P. G. Lester B. Davis; left supporter noble grand, P. G. William Jordan; right scene supporter, William Beesmer; left scene supporter, Myron Myers; right supporter vice grand, Edward Van Kleeck; left supporter vice grand, LeGrand Shultis; inside guardian, P. G. William Shultis; outside guardian, Ernest Beesmer; chaplain, Past District Deputy Arthur E. Trowbridge.

Upon the presentation of the gavel the next presiding officer, Edmund C. Burgher, stated that he considered this as one of the greatest moments of his life, that he felt keenly the honor bestowed but was not unmindful of the responsibilities attached to the office, and asked that each and every member cooperate toward the growth of Shokan Lodge and the making of still better and greater Odd Fellowship.

The noble grand then called upon Deputy Rogers for the customary address following installation. Mr. Rogers voiced his great pleasure to visit Shokan Lodge with his staff in the office as installing deputy. That it holds prestige as one of the foremost and most influential lodges in Ulster county. His general sentiment was expressed beautifully by the reading of a clipping which he had obtained from the Grand Lodge Record. He urged closer cooperation among the various lodges in the district that the banner of Odd Fellowship might be carried unfalteringly forward in the sweeping march of fraternity whereby the great ideals of friendship, love and truth may be exemplified more practically and beautifully for the general betterment of all who might come within the realm of their beneficial influence.

The next speaker was Grand Marshal Lamouree who is readily acknowledged one of the most distinguished and best loved Odd Fellows in Ulster county. The various other members of the deputy's staff followed in rotation with brief and appropriate remarks.

The noble grand next called upon Past Deputy J. Henry Hill, who voiced his great pleasure to visit Shokan Lodge and watch from the sidelines the wonderful work of his worthy successor and staff.

Fitting words were also voiced by Past Grand John Weinard of the former deputies staff.

Among other able speakers in the visiting group were Bradley Shultis of William H. Raymond Lodge, president of the I. O. O. F. Ulster County Past Grands Association and Past Grand Clarence Shultis of Bearsville Lodge, No. 532. President Shultis gave an outline of the proposed program for 1933, which he hoped might be carried out by the Association and commended highly the attitude of Grand Master Clark in which he has strongly sanctioned the cooperative work of the various Past Grands Associations about the state in their efforts to gain greater recognition in Grand Lodge circles for the benefit of the smaller urban lodges. These must face vastly different conditions than met by the strong city lodges which in times past have by their powerful influence secured recognition and favored legislation detrimental to the best interests of the scattered unorganized county districts.

Next came the most dramatic scene of its kind in the history of Shokan Lodge. Past District Deputy Arthur E. Trowbridge asked permission of the floor. He asked that the honored veterans of fifty years form at the altar. In glowing words from which radiated the heartfelt fellowship of brotherly love and affection he felicitated them and called in order of their date of membership the names of Walter F. Brooks, who joined the lodge in March, 1882. Chase W. Davis in August, and Simon K. Bishop on December 26 of that year.

Only one other member lived to reach the golden anniversary, the stalwart beloved James McMillin, one of the founders of the lodge and a Past District Deputy, who died on December 1, 1931. The lodge had been organized in August, 1881, and throughout his long membership Mr. McMillin had continued as its most outstanding member, he being affectionately termed "The Father of Shokan Lodge."

The presentation of the 50 year jewels was made by the presiding Deputy Rogers. With voices at times choked with emotion each of the veterans made most fitting response, in which was recalled the early struggles of the lodge and its gradual development into one of the foremost rural lodges in the Hudson Valley. Automobiles were long unheard of, the membership was scattered, but still the distances of five and more miles in many cases were traveled regularly summer and winter either on foot or by horse and wagon or sleigh as Saturday night rolled around. A number of the early members lived in Phoenicia and Chichester. It was this group who in 1857 were the founders of Phoenicia Lodge. Throughout the ceremony the lodge remained standing as an honored tribute.

The first meeting place of Shokan Lodge was above Jonathan Brodhead's store at the Brodhead Bridge railroad crossing. Later the meeting place was changed to Ira Elmendorf's hall over the Brodhead post office, where more spacious qualities were obtained, the hall having been built for lodge purposes. The lodge continued to meet here for a long period until with the coming of the water works the magnificent new hall was built at Olive Bridge in 1912 and paid for from the funds of the lodge.

Following the presentation, remaining business routine was speedily dispensed with and an adjournment was taken to the down stairs auditorium, where tables were set and an elaborate refreshment menu awaited serving at the hands of the ever ready committee of Olive Rebekah members. Hot oyster stew in an abundance, a favorite dish in season at Shokan Lodge social gatherings, prepared by Chefs Oscar Dudley and Virgil Gordon, was the first course to grace the bill of fare followed by sandwiches, pickles, cheese, celery, cake, coffee and lastly cigars. A collection cup passed along the tables provided a tidy appreciation offering for the Rebekahs' treasury. Continuing the social program some remained down stairs and formed visiting groups, while again returning to the lodge room card playing found favor among a large majority group. Six card tables were required to provide space for all. It was not until well past the midnight hour that social activities ceased and regretfully fond adieus were bidden as visitors and members parted, each with the expressed hope that all soon might be privileged to meet again. Prominent among the visiting members were District Deputy Jacob Rogers and staff, Past District Deputy Henry A. Lamouree as grand marshal, John W. Carn as D. D. grand warden, Ernest Schinner as D. D. grand secretary, Peter Hommel as D. D. grand financial secretary, Jason Vedder as D. D. grand treasurer, John Myers as D. D. grand chaplain, and Theodore Carlson as grand guardian.

From William H. Raymond Lodge, No. 59, of Saugerties, were Past Deputy J. Harvey Hill, John Winard and other members of his 1932 staff, also Bradley Shultis, president of the Ulster County Past Grands Association. In the delegation from Bearsville Lodge were Past Grands Clarence Shultis, Watson Riseley, Lewis Hommel, Foster Shultis and Courtney Rodney and others. Aretas Lodge, No. 172, of Kingston, was represented by Past Grand Newton Van Etten, who was accompanied by Past Grand Henry L. Winchel, also of Kingston, a veteran member of Shokan Lodge. Among guests at a social program of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Shultis of Wittenberg, daughter and son-in-law of Simon Bishop, one of the honored 50 year members. Mr. and Mrs. Shultis also were accompanied by their daughter. Mrs. Walter Brooks of Ohioville also accompanied her honored 50 year husband.

The affair as viewed from any angle was a complete and most distinguished success and an occasion that will long be recalled as a bright and shining milestone along the pathway of memory.

BING AND BING MANAGEMENT

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Kingston: "Son Daughter." A story laid in China, filled with Oriental intrigue and romance. Helen Hayes plays the part of the daughter of a man who wanted a son. She is in love with a Chinese boy, played by Ramon Novarro, but she marries another man to help her father who needs money. Lewis Stone and Warner Oland are also in the cast.

Orpheum: "The Star Witness" and "Passport to Paradise." Chic Sale, Dickey Moore and Walter Huston are among the principal players in the first talkie, a story of crime detection, laid in a court room. "Passport to Paradise" is a sea thriller with Jack Mulhall and Blanche Mehaffey.

Broadway: "The Mummy." Boris Karloff contributes another horror characterization to his already long list, this time as an Egyptian mummy buried alive over 3,700 years ago, who is brought back to life, and who wanders about in the world of today, a study of gruesomeness. Mr. Karloff's makeup for this unusual part is quite marvelous, but the plot is impossible and unbelieveable from start to finish. Good for an evening of thrills.

Kingston: Same.

Orpheum: "Local Boy Makes Good" and "Get That Girl". Joe E. Brown uses his peculiar talents to advantage in this show of a home town boy who makes good at college. Dorothy Lee, Elliot Nugent, and Ruth Hall are members of the cast. "Get That Girl" with Richard Talmadge, is a melodrama of the old school, filled with action and thrills.

Broadway: "Sara Crewe." At 4 p. m. tomorrow, Clare Tree Major Children's Theatre will present "Sara Crewe". Tickets for this special attraction are now on sale at O'Reilly's stationery stores. The evening performance will show the talkie "Silver Lining," a romance of rich and poor, with a cast that features Maureen O'Sullivan and Betty Compson action taken had been the passing of a vote of thanks to Scout Executive Wright for the help he had given scoutmasters during the past year.

Boy Scout Council Annual Meeting

Scout Executive Wright was next called upon to present the silver cup which had been awarded to the troop which won the inter-troop contest the past year. The cup was presented to Joel Ballotin of Ellenville, representing Troop 29 of that village, the winner of the contest for the second year.

Officers Elected

G. Wallace Codwise, chairman of the nominating committee, the other members being Judge Joseph M. Fowler and Superintendent of Schools B. C. Van Ingen, then presented the following list of officers for the year 1933:

President—Dr. Lawrence H. Van den Berg, New Paltz.

Honorary President—Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, Kingston.

Vice-Presidents — H. Westlake Coons, Ellenville; J. Frank Lackey, Tannersville; V. T. Pine, New Paltz; E. Frank Flanagan, Kingston.

Honorary vice presidents—Frank J. LeFever, New Paltz; Judge M. E. Thorpe, Catskill; the Hon. Harcourt J. Pratt, Highland; Delancey N. Mathews, Kingston; John T. Washburn, Martin Cantine, Saugerties.

Treasurer—Morris Samter, Kingston.

Commissioner—Ashton H. Hart, High Falls.

New members of the Council—Morris Samter, Palmer Canfield, Jr., Dr. Raymond S. Crispell, Kingston; Harold VanVoorhis, Albert Smith, John F. Cavnright, Saugerties; S. D. Scudder, Tannersville; Harry Teich, Leeds; James Swift, Highland.

Upon motion the nominations were approved unanimously. Dr. Van den Berg took the chair and accepted the election as president with the pledge that he would give just as much of his time as possible to the work of scouting during the year. He said that he took office with some trepidation, first, because it was difficult to follow a man who had proven so successful as had Major Hart; second, because of the trouble that seems to be so prevalent everywhere today, the difficulty in being able to balance the budget. He noted that the council was facing that difficulty, despite the fact that 250 scouts had been added during the past year, saying "It's the poor man that always has the largest family." Executive Wright was praised for having done a splendid piece of work and Dr. Van den Berg said that there was at present more interest in scouting in this section than at any time during the ten years he has lived here.

Executive Spoke

Executive Wright spoke briefly, supplementing his written report. He emphasized the need of more work by troop committeemen, the need of a more general attendance upon the summer camp and more attention to matter of advancing in rank on the part of scouts, saying that there are too many tenderfoot scouts in the various troops. Mr. Wright referred briefly to the ten year plan being put into operation, which aims at placing one out of every four boys into Scouting during the next ten years.

The program of the evening closed with an excellent address by Gilbert H. Gendall, formerly of Roxbury, now regional executive for the second regional district, comprising the states of New York and New Jersey. Mr. Gendall expressed satisfaction at the evidence of interest on the part of the man power of the Council as shown by the large number present. He was pleased at the comprehensive setup of the Council and the interest that had been manifested in the afternoon conferences. He stressed the absolute need of interest on the part of the people of the various communities, saying that "You cannot do for a community what the community will not do for itself. Outside leadership cannot do it."

Mr. Gendall found a great deal to be proud of in the showing made by the Council today, referring to his first visit here seven years ago, when the Council was without an executive, scouting was at a low ebb and there were some $8,000 in bad bills.

As to the showing being made by scouting in this region he said that reports just received showed that in Region 2 there were 104,876 registered Scouts, a gain of nearly 5,000 the past year—the peak in membership and the highest gain ever made in one year with the exception of 1927. For the past four years the sea scouts had gained nearly 50 per cent each year. Over one-third of the sea scouts were over 18 years of age.

The average debts of the 72 councils in the region were not much larger this year than usual. The speaker warned his hearers against reducing their budget to the point where the efficiency of scouting was affected. He said that it was impossible, without great detriment to the boys to "let things drift for a while." Mr. Gendall added, "Boys don't live twice, they live now. You can't stop character forming organizations for two years and then catch up."

The present period was characterized as a very trying one for youth and reference was made to thousands of boys and young men, "lone wolves," who are at present roaming the country.

Commenting on the attendance at summer camp in the Ulster-Greene Council, Mr. Gendall said that the percentage was low. He noted that out of 22,000 boys who attended camp in Region 2 last year, the average distance to camp being 60 miles, there had not been a single fatality.

The speaker closed with some comment on Boys Life, the scout magazine, which he said was the second largest boys' magazine in the world and was the most widely read on the part of high school boys, of any magazine in America.

Continue Search For Michael Mayone

Sergeant James Cunningham, Troopers Coons and Metzer were again engaged Wednesday afternoon in searching the Esopus creek between the Gildersleeve property and the Pratt Boice place in an effort to learn whether the Esopus held the mystery of the disappearance of Michael Mayone, who has been missing from his home in this city since Christmas. At that time Mayone started out through the town of Ulster in the vicinity of Sawkill evidently to look after a line of traps. Sergeant Cunningham has located several places where Mayonne was seen after that and when last seen he was headed toward Kingston and it is thought he may have attempted to cross the Esopus creek on the ice and that the ice broke and he was drowned.

The Troopers have searched the woods and high cliffs in the territory where it is thought he may have gone to look after traps, on the theory that he may have accidentally shot himself or fallen from some cliff.

FARMERS' TALK.

Lincoln, Nebraska, was recently the scene of crowded meetings of state agricultural organizations. Some of the topics listed for talks and general discussion were: ethics in beekeeping; black raspberries a paying crop; pigs in the cornfield; painting on the farm; the kind of turkeys the consumers want; fitting the tractor into the economy program; the road ahead; poems of rural life; making the binder work ten years longer; the glory of the winter garden; low cost of beauty in the home; meeting nutritional needs with Nebraska foods; the place of music in everyday life; something besides work; financing agriculture, and why mothers turn gray. The meetings ended in a "farmers' family fun frolic."

A New York paper, apparently considering the program not serious enough, remarks that organized agriculture in Nebraska acts as if things were really bright ahead. Such a program might have been planned in a period of normal agricultural well-being. "Disturbing" subjects are strangely lacking. Perhaps the program planners gave too little time to the depression. On the other hand, it should be remembered that there were financial troubles in the agricultural regions before the full force of the depression broke over the industrial and financial sections.

The meetings may have seemed dull and old-fashioned to outsiders, the discussions futile, the topics not quite timely. But would the farmers have been any better off or any farther ahead if they had discussed Technocracy, international debts or federal budget-balancing? Sometimes it looks as if those problems suffer from too much talk.

CARS TO BUY.

The new cars on display at this year's automobile shows are thrilling creations. There has been no backward slip to poorer quality and no yielding to the notion that mechanical perfection is undesirable. The new cars are colorful, streamlined, with longer and lower bodies, and marvels of driving ease. They have many improvements and innovations such as broader and adjustable seats, ventilation, more speed, easier and quieter operation, longer average life.

Price lists, it is reported, are designed to fit many pocketbooks, ranging from less than $400 to custom-built cars at thousands of dollars. Let us hope a lot of the new cars are bought promptly. One automobile manufacturer advertises cleverly that the purchase of one of his cars would provide work for one man for a year, and that if all the cars now in use were scrapped, new cars could be bought to replace them from the savings now on deposits in banks, with money left over. Of all the luxuries of the dizzy times immediately preceding the deflation years, the automobile seems one of the most honestly justifiable.

GROWING UP.

Writing in the Chicago Daily News, Howard Vincent O'Brien complains that "the modern boy is conducting fraternity initiations at an age when his ancestors were commanding ships and leading armies." But he is not disposed to blame the boys for their prolonged infancy. He seems to think it is the grown-ups' fault that the boys don't grow up faster.

He tells of a university gathering where the local graduates were giving a luncheon for alumni and their sons. Two undergraduates spoke, and did very well, giving an impression that their college really was an educational institution and that their minds were rapidly maturing.

"Then," says the writer, "came a bespectacled oldster who discoursed at some length on the athletic situation. He was optimistic about football prospects, and went so far as to express confidence that Harvard would be beaten. This evoked applause from the ancients. The young seemed unmoved. One youth smiled wanly. 'Who cares,' he said, 'whether we beat Harvard? Who cares, indeed, whether we play them?'" From which, the writer seems to suggest, it might be inferred that college boys are growing up faster than their alumni are.

AMUSEMENT TRENDS.

Among the interesting facts tucked away in that ponderous report of the President's commission on social trends are these: There are revolutionary changes occurring in American amusements. Baseball, pugilism, fraternal societies, pool rooms and cabarets are declining in popularity. Golf, football, lunch clubs, hunting, fishing and hiking are on the up and up. This information will reassure many who have wondered whether, in following their recreational yearnings, they were doing the proper thing. It will probably be no news to dealers in sport goods, but will help them clarify their future policies.

There is a big business stake, along with the personal enjoyment, in this realm of activity. The commission says we Americans spend $10,000,000,000 in normal years for amusement—half of it in the use of automobiles for pleasure. The movies get $1,500,000,000 of our money. There should be a rapid increase in expenditures for fun with restored incomes and growing leisure.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

REMOVAL OF TONSILS

The number of individuals with infected tonsils who refuse to have them removed is very large indeed.

They argue, quite naturally, that the tonsils were put there for some definite purpose and they should not be removed. This is quite true and tonsils have sometimes been removed simply because they were large, when as a matter of fact they were doing useful work for the body.

The tonsil is a sort of filter that filters out harmful substances from the blood; it also destroys harmful organisms that might cause trouble in the system.

However just as the filter on your water tap can get overloaded with dirt or other substances so also can the tonsils get so infected and so damaged that instead of doing their filtering work for the blood, they are actually pouring harmful substances—poisons—into the blood.

When the tonsils should be removed surgery is still considered the best method. However if for some reason, surgery cannot be used, diathermy—electricity—is now proving effective.

By this method the tissue of the tonsil is coagulated, and thus all bloodvessels, nerves, and other structures are destroyed.

Unfortunately the destruction of the tonsils cannot be done in one operation as in surgery, and requires a number of visits to the doctor's office. Drs. R. G. Brown and J. V. Duhig, Sydney, Australia, state that the removal of tonsils by electricity can be performed, almost painlessly, and with practically no discomfort following, provided just a little destruction is done at each sitting.

Further, the use of electricity for this purpose should be in the hands of only those skilled in its use, as bad results in some cases are due entirely to lack of knowledge on the part of the operator. When the work is not done properly, parts of the tonsils, containing considerable infection, may still be left, and the harmful substance continue to be absorbed into the blood.

The thought then is that surgery is always the best method unless there are defects in heart, lungs, or other organic conditions.

Where these organic conditions exist, or the patient fears the operation, diathermy, in skilled hands, is indicated.

MARRIED TEACHERS TOPIC FOR TAXPAYERS TO DISCUSS

Jan. 18, 1933

Editor of The Freeman:

It semes that it is not sufficient enough that young girls, prepared for teaching, are discouraged by the manner in which placements are made in Kingston and by the tenacity with which women, whose husbands are earning splendid salaries, hold on to their positions, but now they are having some of the important substitute work taken away from them.

A married woman, who husband is making enough to keep the family (although his salary has been slightly cut) has entered the hardly affluent field of substituting. That, however, it in itself a mere trivialty. The most ominous feature of it all is, she is not only taking work from girls who need it far more than she, but she is given the cream of the substituting. Furthermore, she must have her car to drive to and from school.

I think the way in which matters are being handled is a gross and flagrant offense against the public's trust in the authorities.

All of which is merely a preamble, a prelude, to a matter of more vital and timely concern. Since a taxpayers' meeting is to be held soon, this is an opportune time for open discussion of the married teachers' question.

There are in all, twelve married teachers in Kingston's grade schools. Of these twelve, most of them have husbands whose salaries necessitate paying an income tax. The husband of one of the twelve is dead, which makes that woman the sole support of her family. There is one other who really needs the work. Of the ten remaining, who could easily give up working, more than half have reached the maximum salary of $1,700. Then there are several others (not married but who have reached the maximum) who could go out on pensions. For all those teachers, young girls who are badly in need of work could be secured for $1,100.

Incidentally, I feel that I am unequivocally justified in asserting that no intelligent taxpayer can afford to disregard the problems which will be set forth at the meeting in February. I sincerely hope that the people of Kingston are not letting themselves become lethargic to such a degree that they are too lazy to voice their rights and see to it that they are fulfilled.

A TAXPAYER.

$ Buying Barbara

by Julia Clute-Addams • Author of "The Quiet Answer"

SYNOPSIS: Mark Lodely, crippled, arrogant and cruel, is the guest of Farrell Armitage, who is trying to cure him and launch him as an artist in order to permit Barbara Quentin Mark's fiancée, to choose between them unhampered by pity for Mark. Mark has been maintaining unfair charge about Farrell's love for Barbara, when suddenly he learns Armitage's secretary, Kenneth Poole, longs for Barbara.

Chapter 24

"TO OUR MEMORIES"

THE door opened to admit Thomas with the brandy decanter and glasses and, behind Thomas, a girl.

"It's very characteristic," said the girl—"how I always manage to come in on the cocktail-wagon."

Poole started for as he advanced to meet her. He had not met Leila Cane before but he guessed that this must be she.

"This isn't going to be a revel, really," he explained when he had introduced himself. "The intoxicant is for Lodely. His heart isn't quite the thing this afternoon."

She went up to the big chair and looked down at its occupant. Supported by Thomas, he was sipping brandy. A faint color had crept back to his face. Leila smiled, a faint, bitter smile that Poole found rather attractive.

"Hullo, Mark! Got the tantrums?"

Poole took a chance.

"He's been ba'ting Armitage," he explained. "Swords for two, you know, and brandy for one."

"If Mark needs brandy," said Leila, "Farrell must be needing an ambulance." Her bright eyes swept the room. "Where did you put him?"

"We disagreed, fundamentally, on the subject of handling women," came from Mark before Poole could make any retort. "He has just wandered out to dig a pit for himself and, in due course, to fall into it."

"What a cad you are!" commented Leila dispassionately. She took a cigarette from the case Poole offered and lit it. "Isn't he a cad, Mr. Poole? Don't you hate having him in the house?"

"On the contrary, he fascinates me! All that artistic temperament stuff—I've never met it before at close quarters."

"I don't want any more brandy," said Mark petulantly. And, as the footman withdrew — "I haven't drawn your soul yet, Leila. Have a care!"

Poole thought she flinched but in the next second she had recovered herself.

"I haven't a soul — and you've drawn all the rest of me."

"Have you sat for your portrait, then, Miss Cane?"

"No, though he pretends I did."

"Could I have painted you like that, from memory, d'you think?" protested the artist. "Who would believe it, Leila?"

"Only Barbara, bless her!" she told him steadily. "And she said you hadn't done me justice. And started her kitchen fire with it."

Poole laughed suddenly. With these two, as with Armitage and Lodely, he had the feeling that they were talking over his head. But whatever it was about, he backed this Cane girl. Never before had he seen a grown man—cripple or no—look so childishly cross.

"Barbara should have left it alone. It was mine," he muttered. "I shall tell her so the moment she comes."

"Is Barbara coming here?"

"Yes. To do me a studio that isn't a silly clutter of sofa cushions."

"When I saw her last week, she said that if she did come up, it would be to do Patsy's rooms, not yours."

"She will do them, though."

His humor apparently restored, Mark Lodely stretched up a hand and Leila, giving him hers, helped him up. Poole's "Oh, I say, let me!" came too late. Mark was already on his feet, Leila's hand still in his; before she could withdraw it, he raised it to his lips.

"To our memories, Leila!"

Poole, strolling across the room to see him out of the door, wondered. And then he wondered at himself for wondering. She was just one of a thousand others. He strolled back and found that the painful flush, that had risen under her powder, had gone again. She was elaborately composed.

"He does so hate it when you won't let him see you're impressed," she said. "Do you think genius is always as unendurable as Mark?"

"No idea! But he quite honestly doesn't impress me, except as an evil-tempered little cuss."

"He makes people, especially women, feel that if he could let them, they could heal him of his sins."

"Well, all I know is that I'd throttle the woman who tried to heal me of mine!"

He spoke quite seriously but evidently something — perhaps his whole-hearted dismay—amused her and she began to laugh. It was a friendly, jolly laugh and he liked the sound of it. He was quite sorry when she stopped. It had made him want to see her out on the moors in tweeds, with some of that paint washed off her face and one of those jolly little felt hats instead of this black, provocative thing.

"It's such a long time," she said, merriment still in her eyes, "since I met a man who could give me as ferocious a hint as that. Here's Mrs. Lodely. Hullo, Judy darling! How be ye?"

The west-country greeting linked two chains of thought in Poole's mind. Quentin, Lodely and Cane. Leila Cane. Quentin and Lodely had crashed and Cane had prospered. Him!

"No, I'm not with Patsy Raoul any longer," Leila was announcing as and when Mrs. Lodely's laugh would allow her to make herself heard. "I'm not even at a hotel. I've just taken what Mark's lot call a 'decomposingly urgent' service flat in a Caroline Square."

"You're goin' the pace, Leila, ain't you? You can't get flats in Caroline Square for a song, though I remember 20 years ago I thought nothin' of—"

"I blackmailed father into trebling my allowance," said Leila lightly. "And if that doesn't cover it, well, I'm sorry but no living woman can do more."

"My dear gel, what things you do say!"

And then tea arrived, and Mrs. Lodely fell upon it.

Barbara received Mark's wire just as she put away her work for the night.

"Miss Quentin Way End Clipsborough. Come. Mark."

She read it with a startled indrawing of the breath. Come, Mark. He wanted her—she must go to him.

"Any answer, miss?"

She darted to her work-table for a pencil. She needed only to say that she was coming at once. He would know that she would catch the next train or, if necessary, hire a car to Taunton Junction. She had begun to write the words when something tugged at her mind and stopped her.

She was remembering the letters she had written during the first week of his absence and the telegram she had sent asking for his advice about Miss Raoul's commission. He had not answered any of them, though his mother had reported that he was well and active.

Of course, Mark very rarely wrote to her during their separations, was contemptuous, in fact, of the whole idea behind a daily correspondence. Still—after that first week, she had written twice more and the only answer had been a post-card telling her to send his old sketchbooks by return mail.

"Any answer, miss, please?"

What was the matter with her? Again, she poised the pencil. But that something that fretted at her would not be denied. It was like a whisper in her ear—and a whisper very like Leila's. 'Mark's lazy—Mark's cruel.' An irritation, a resentment of Mark rose in her that she had not known before.

She wrote her answer, on impulse, to Judy. "Is my immediate presence essential to Mark?"

Glancing at her watch, as the boy ran off, she saw that there was time for Judy to reply the same evening. She went to the telephone and arranged for the answer to be transmitted to her. Then she sat down and tried to discover what had come over her.

Mark had called to her and she had not gone to him. What would he think—what would he do? She began to be frightened now, to construct a hundred ways in which Judy might reply to her. Mark ill. Mark dying.

She was huddled miserably over her little oil-stove, her head and heart aching together, when the telephone rang. The message was brief. "Of course not. Stay where you are."

Barbara at last works herself up, tomorrow, to an important decision.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—

by John Hix

The white flag of truce flew for the first time in the history of warfare, from an airplane in the closing hours of the World War when, from a French field in a French plane piloted by a French officer, Capt. Geyer of the German delegation was flown to the German headquarters with terms of the armistice.

The flight was necessary because messengers expected from Germany failed to arrive in time to return the order to cease firing to their own forces. The plane that made the historic flight was equipped with long white streamers attached to the struts. German anti-aircraft gunners, seeing the enemy ship racing over their lines in the early morning fog, saw for the first time an airplane flying a flag of truce.

One of the strangest accidents ever recorded is given in the story of a bird setting fire to a building with a lighted cigaret. The bird, picking up a cigaret from the streets of Melrose, Mass., flew with it to its nest under the eaves of the city hall. The cigaret lighted material in the nest, and finally set the city hall on fire.

Strange as it seems, elephants are pretty puny beasts when compared with the Scarabid beetle, that is in comparison to their respective weights. The beetle can lift about 8¼ ounces, or 850 times its own weight. A three-ton elephant, with that strength, could lift 2,500 tons.

Union Hose Fete New Commissioner

Last evening about 150 people gathered in the engine house of Union Hose Company to attend a testimonial dinner given in honor of Fire Commissioner Edward F. Moran. Mr. Moran has been a member of Union Hose Company for many years and for several years past has been its president. The gathering was attended by the members of the fire company, their wives and lady friends, also members of the Ladies' Auxiliary and their friends.

After the serving of a delicious chicken dinner Joseph F. Sullivan, acting as master of ceremonies, stated the purpose of the gathering and extended congratulations to the new commissioner. He then introduced a number of speakers.

Mayor Eugene B. Carey extended congratulations to the commissioner and to Union Hose Company and asked for the continued support of the firemen in the work of the department.

Commissioner Harry B. Walker spoke in behalf of the fire board extending felicitations to Commissioner Moran.

Fire Chief Murphy and Deputy Chief Leverich also made brief talks on the work of the department, stressing the value of the cooperation being manifested between the paid and volunteer firemen.

City Assessor William B. Martin, foreman of Excelsior Hose Company, was present and brought the congratulations and well wishes of his company and pledged their support to the new fire board.

Mrs. Julia Kane, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Union Hose Company, was then introduced and congratulated the guest of the evening and presented him with a silver cigarette case and cigarette lighter.

William J. Keating, foreman of the company, then spoke and in behalf of Union Hose presented Commissioner Moran with a beautiful wrist watch suitably engraved.

Mr. Moran thanked all present for their kindness to him. He thanked the mayor for his appointment, the ladies for their gift as well as the fire company, and promised to give of his best endeavors to promote the work of the fire department.

The evening's pleasure concluded with a dance program enjoyed by those present to a late hour.

SMALL-TOWN CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE, RADIO TALK

"Small-Town Chambers of Commerce" is the subject of a radio talk to be given Sunday, January 22, from 7 to 7:15 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, by Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of Commerce of the United States. He will speak from Washington over the coast to coast network of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Dr. Klein will uphold the view that students of business matters should not concentrate unduly upon the big industrial centers and money-marts of the country, but should also scrutinize with utmost care the conditions, sentiments, and efforts in the smaller communities. From the well-spring of small-town vigor and intelligence, the Assistant Secretary believes, potent forces for our business recovery are flowing, and are destined to gain in strength.

Dr. Klein will show how such forces find expression through the local newspapers, whether daily or weekly, and through active chambers of commerce in these smaller cities and towns. He will cite numerous instances in which such agencies have rendered remarkable service to their communities in combating unusual perplexities of the depression—overcoming grave local difficulties through energetic concerted effort. Urging that the small-town chambers of commerce be loyally supported, Dr. Klein will discuss their principles, problems, and possibilities for even broader usefulness in the future.

Tammany Hall

The Society of Tammany was organized in New York city about 1783 as a benevolent, patriotic and social organization. Eventually its members got into politics and for a number of decades it has been principally a political party. The building in which its meetings are held, and which it owns, is named Tammany hall.

Night Coughs

Piso's stops night coughing instantly and effectively because it does the needed things. Swallowed slowly, it clings to the throat, soothes inflamed tissues, and loosens the mucus. We Sing of Stars and Bouknots

New York—Copper is up. Ask any dressmaker or, for that matter, any one with a sense of sartorial values. It's being done—and very cleverly done—for evening, as a change from the eternal silver and gold.

Look closely at the gown ensemble and ask yourself whether you do not think these sequin-bordered armholes are a pleasant change from the great fur wheels we've been carrying about these nights. The fortunates who are dancing under Southern stars feel so, anyway. Flowers play a decorative part, too, in these pseudosophisticated frocks. It seems to amuse women to be naive one evening and sophisticated the next, and so there are nights for copper, and such affluent-looking trimmings, and nights for flowers and the sweet allure of tulle.

There are many silver threads, too, among the dancing dresses. These accent the never-ending preference for white which smart women of all ages seem to be showing. There are glistening whites and dull ones, so what is more natural than that it should become the proper thing to trim the dull with the shiny, or the other way out—in blacks as well as in whites.

You're heard, of course, that bowknots have been drafted for further service. They are literally scattered all over the place, on hats and slippers, and may be jeweled or otherwise. They are of the Watteau vogue that is being forecast.

There are not only leis of flowers—an old story now—but also garlands and even necklaces of flowers to be worn with evening dresses of the Baby type. It's also again possible to wear flowers in one's hair without being suspected of being another mad Ophelia. But you must be the type. You've seen, of course, pictures of the diamond fringes and such that Chanel advocates for the coiffure. Fortunately, they do not have to be genuine. Stars are another motif that has been derived from the Mauve Decade.

Copper a Smart Investment

Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild.

The formal gown illustrated is developed in navy blue rough crepe, with copper sequins making an effective trimming, outlining the arms in bands and also serving as the girdle. The two-piece suggestion in the peplum treatment is important.

Spring Coats Are Less Extreme

Coat designers are again coming forward with a wealth of new ideas in collars. While the furless coat is placed in the position of volume leader, fur-trimmed models are much worn, the detachable fur playing an even more important role this year than last.

Since the coat silhouette advanced for spring is decidedly more modified, getting away from the top-heavy contours of the fall, it is natural that fur trimmings should enhance this feeling. Hence the capelet collar is often cut smaller and lies flatter, draped collars add a softer quality to the silhouette, while numerous crossed treatments add symmetry and balance.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

There is a growing feeling that the spring millinery silhouette is veering toward the Louis XV and XVI periods.

Browns and navy are more apt to be worn without relief than black, but even an all-brown street costume often reveals a colored dress when the coat is open.

Two-piece and one-piece knitted sports frocks in becoming pastel contrasts in lacy sleeve and bodice details are prominent among the new offerings. Melon, yellow, and gold shades are especially favored.

Green is next in popularity after red for entire costumes, both in dark and bright shades.

Annual Report Of Boy Scout Council

really is accomplishing in guiding the lives of over half a thousand boys along the paths of good citizenship.

The success which has crowned the work during the past year is due entirely to the loyal support and unselfish labors of volunteer workers all over Ulster and Greene Counties. To them the credit is due and theirs is the satisfaction of humanitarian work well done.

Respectively,
ASHTON H. HART,
President.

Troop Organization for 1932.

To the Member of the Ulster-Greene Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Gentlemen:

The Committee on Troop Organization wishes to submit the following report of its activities for the year ending December 31, 1932:

On December 31, 1931 we had 29 Troops with 554 Scouts.

On December 31, 1932, we had 33 Troops with 659 Scouts.

This shows a net gain of four troops and 105 Scouts.

Two troops dropped were: No. 4 sponsored by the Congregational Church of Kingston and No. 23 sponsored by the Grange at Clintondale.

The six troops added for the year are as follows:

No. 5, sponsored by the Jewish Community Center at Kingston. No. 9, sponsored by Trinity Methodist Church in Kingston. No. 18, sponsored by the Men's Community Club of Stone Ridge. No. 35, sponsored by the Methodist Church at Malden. No. 41, sponsored by the Reformed Church at Coxsackie, and No. 51, sponsored by the Hose Company of Windham.

Preliminary work of organization has been taken in the following places, and we hope these troops will be enrolled during the coming year:

Woodstock, Kerhonkson, Ellenville, Milton, Cementon, Kingston, Gardiner, Rosendale, Hunter, Tillson.

This year of 1932 saw us increase our dropped scouts by over 75 per cent over 1931. In some cases there is a very good reason, in many there does not seem to be any.

The following is the record of why boys have dropped according to reasons given on the "Dropped Scout Notices" filed in the Council Office:

Lost interest	162
Moved away	13
Troop dropped	27
Working	8
School work	3
Away to College	5
Athletics	1
Outgrew	13
Other interests	4
Transferred	3
Dismissed	2
Died	2
Promoted	7

What For 1933?

Your Committee on Troop Organization feels that we should enter whole heartedly into the spirit and promotion of the 10 Year Plan of Scouting. We find we are reaching about one out of every four—and our next task is to so arrange our program that we will maintain these boys in active relationship with their troops and leaders for a period of not less than four years.

In order to put this program into effect we believe there must take place several things as follows:

Every man accepting responsibilities as Scoutmaster or Troop Committeeman should avail himself of every opportunity for training made possible by the Leadership Training Committee.

That every man serving on Troop Committees must more fully appreciate that he "has a job" to perform and when he fails in this performance his Troop will suffer accordingly. He must "work at" his task and aid in making Scouting effective in the lives of the boys in his troop.

That all Troop Officials should avail themselves of the material supplied by our Council Office to show what their field is and also what they may do to make their work more effective.

We have had a good year in 1932, we ask for the cooperation of every Scouter that this year of 1933 will be even greater in our progress.

Respectfully submitted,
SIDNEY K. CLAPP,
Chairman.

Court of Honor for 1932.

To the Members of the Ulster-Greene Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Gentlemen:

As Chairman of our Court of Honor, I wish to submit to you the following partial report of our progress for the year of 1932:

During the year Courts have met as follows:

Rondout Valley A. C.	2
Kingston A. C.	2
Catskill A. C.	2
Upper Hudson A. C.	2

Two-County-wide Courts took place—one in Kingston and one in Catskill.

The Courts did not meet in the Wallkill Valley, Mid-Hudson, Mountain, and Saugerties Administrative Centers.

During the year we find awards were made as follows: 347 boys became Tenderfoot, 140 boys became Second Class, 77 boys became First Class, 254 boys received Merit Badges.

We hope to see all our various Courts more active during 1933, and completely organized for their duties and responsibilities.

Respectfully submitted,
J. N. FOWLER,
Council Chairman.

Committee on Camping for 1932

As chairman of the Committee on Camping I desire to submit to you the following partial report for our summer camp for the year 1932:

Our camp for this year was a considerable improvement over any previous year we have had. We are continuing to go forward. Our attendance was greater and there was a finer spirit amongst the campers and amongst the employed staff.

We increased over 1931—31.9 in different boys, 11.9 in boy weeks, and that during the year our membership has increased 20.2 per cent. This, I think, is a creditable showing and is due largely, I believe, to the fact that we have had a new camp site.

During the time camp was in operation hundreds of people visited the camp and from all sides we heard words of congratulations on the fine site which we had. This, I believe, speaks volumes for us in the future.

In checking through the accomplishments for the camp this year we find that a greater number of boys advanced in rank and won camp merits of various degrees. Very few boys entering camp this summer were unable to swim, but five were taught the art and 22 boys passed the Red Cross Junior Life Saving rank.

The handicraft department at the camp exceeded the interest of previous summers. Here boys had an opportunity to use their heads as well as their hands in working in leather, wood-carving, archery, kite construction, model airplane building, and several others.

As chairman of the Camp Committee I want to express to the many people who contributed in many ways during the past year. To Harold VanVoorhis who loaned the use of his movie camera, to the organizations and institutions who loaned us trucks in the moving of the camp from the old site to the new, to the Kingston Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, to the Catskill Rotary Club, and organization of St. Patrick's Church who made it possible for many boys to attend camp.

This report would be incomplete if the Camp Committee did not express their appreciation for the fine work which was done by the employed camp staff under the direction of Mr. Cahill, our camp director. To these young men go most of the credit for the success of our camp, and we appreciate in no small manner their efforts.

The finance statement of the camp, I believe, speaks for itself. It was necessary in the moving of camp to put in some new equipment including a cook house, new tents, and other miscellaneous items. Our number of boys increased, our receipts for board decreased. This was due to the fact that we charged $1 less per week this year than in 1931. There was a decrease in the cost per meal of 5½c.

In looking forward to the summer of 1933 our Camp Committee believes that some of the following things should be done. First, more definite arrangements made regarding the use of the present camp site. Second, that a different plan be used for the securing of drinking water. While the methods used this past year were fairly satisfactory it should be considerably improved upon another year. In our cook house it is going to be necessary with the increase in camp to provide better refrigeration for our food and increased cooking space. It will also be necessary for us another year to add additional tentage and sleeping accommodations to take care of our growth. For this reason we have asked for an increase in the budget for the year 1933.

The attached statistics are a comparison for the past three years and I believe tell a complete story.

Respectfully submitted,
S. J. MESSINGER,
Chairman Camp Committee.

Committee on Reading.

Gentlemen:

Your Committee on Reading wishes to submit the following report of its activities this past year.

An effort has been made to place in either School or Public Libraries in each of our communities a complete set of the Merit Badge Pamphlets. To date this has been done in the Ellenville and Catskill Public Libraries. We hope 1933 will see a larger group added to our list.

In checking through our Boys' Life subscriptions on the Troop Concession Offer I find that during 1931 only four of our troops took advantage of this, while in 1932 16 Troops were added to this list. During the year Boys' Life cut their price considerably and I believe every troop can, with proper help, become an active participant in this important part toward good reading.

During the year questionnaires were sent to each troop. Our purpose was to find out "what" boys read, where they secured their material, and what they liked to read. Thirteen Troops responded. We are, at present, endeavoring to compile this information so it may be made available to all Leaders, etc.

Our Committee hopes to accomplish much during 1933, and we ask for the cooperation of every Scouter to this end.

Respectfully submitted,
B. C. VAN INGEN,
Chairman.

Leadership Training.

To the Members of the Ulster-Greene Council, Boy Scouts of America:

Gentlemen:

Your Committee on Leadership Training wishes to make the following report of its activities for 1932.

In the spring of 1932 we operated what is sometimes called the 2nd Year School for all Scouters. The title of the course is "Principles in Scoutsmastership." Two centers of training were established, one in Kingston for the men of Ulster county, and one in Catskill for the men of Greene county.

The attendance of the Greene county was fine, 46 men responded and followed through the 6 indoor sessions. In the Ulster County School the attendance was poor with only 26 men in attendance. The total attendance of 74 men was only about one-half of the attendance we had in the 1931 schools.

Your Committee wishes to extend its appreciation to the following men of the New Paltz Normal, who gave of their time and talents: Prof. B. H. Matteson, E. G. Jacobs, A. B. Bennett, H. V. Peebe.

Your Committee would like to remind our men that it is only by accepting the training made available by our Council, that they can hope to do the most effective work. We hope that every leader and committeeman will this year of 1933 enter into the Training Schools with enthusiasm and by so doing acquaint himself with the tools we have. It will give us a better operated program and thus make Scouting more effective in the lives of our boys.

Sincerely yours,
L. H. VANDEN BERG,
Chairman.

Good Turns Report

The following are a part of the good turns that have been reported at the Council Office for the year. These and others not reported represent hundreds of hours of service given by our boys to institutions, organizations and communities. Probably never before in the history of this Council have our boys unitedly given of so many hours of service in helping the various welfare agencies. This work is to be highly commended.

Troop No. 24—Collected clothes, paper and food for Salvation Army. Cleaned up barn for vacation school. Carried chairs for entertainment. Fixed public tennis court. Cleaned up Hallowe'en pranks. Directed traffic by a wrecked car.

Troop No. 28—Helped American Legion with their Annual Benefit by distributing tickets, advertising, ushering, etc. Took all the torn Hymnals from the church and completely repaired the entire bunch. About twelve boys worked all afternoon at this, besides several hours planning by the Patrol Leaders Council, and getting the necessary supplies for repairs. Decorated the church once during the first quarter. Assisted in Memorial Day activities, helped in Tree Planting, and decorated all graves in cemetery. Decorated the church for Children's Day. Assisted at the Fireman's Carnival by doing odd jobs for them, police work, information work, etc. Decorated the church for Harvest Home festival and for Christmas exercises. We did not distribute dinners or clothes to the needy but we gave considerable aid to our Local Welfare Committee by doing errands, odd jobs, looking up people, etc.

Troop No. 29—Cleaned Hebrew school on different occasions for parties. Delivered groceries to a needy family in Spring Glen. On Christmas Day delivered a number of dinners to those unfortunates who were unable to attend a dinner given by one of our local restaurants. Canvassed entire village for a period of 2 weeks before Christmas for old clothes, shoes, toys, books, magazines, and canned goods. Canvassed grocery stores, bakeries, and meat shops for their contributions. Assorted clothes and groceries and made up packages of same—each package contained a 10, 12 or 14 pound package of smoked ham. Distributed these packages on December 24. This work is to be continued.

Troop No. 40—Assisted Red Cross drive. Distributed Christmas baskets for Welfare Association.

Troop No. 43—Provided three Thanksgiving dinners. Due to our Troop Hallowe'en was divested of anything savoring of rowdyism.

Troop No. 45—Canvassed one-third of the town of Catskill for clothing for the Red Cross center. Helped ladies pack and deliver about 60 Christmas baskets. Gave a turkey to a local institution for Christmas. Two boys reported every day to Red Cross center to aid in any way possible.

Report of Executive.

To the Members of the Ulster-Greene Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Gentlemen:

In my report for the year I would like to draw your attention to the general condition of our Council, to some of our progress, and to some of the weaknesses in our organization and program.

Troop Operation and Program.

Troop Committee — Throughout our Council we have many splendid examples of what Troop Committeemen can do when they are willing to give some time and thought to the operation of their Troop, and its effect upon the lives of the boys in the membership. To many of our splendid men who have given excellent service we give our thanks and appreciation. I feel quite certain that if all men who accept the responsibility of a Troop Committeeman would give of their time and their thought the effectiveness of our program would be considerably improved in the months to come.

Membership—In looking through the report of the Troop Organization Committee we find that we added during the year 355 new boys and this same report also shows that we dropped 250, with a net gain of 105. I believe the time has come when no boy should be dropped from a Troop until the members of the Troop Committee as well as Scoutmaster have investigated each boy's case to find out the "why" of his dropping. Experience has taught us that many boys are dropped promiscuously from troops.

Troop Budget System—1932 saw an increase in the number of troops using this system of finance and I sincerely hope 1933 will see all troops using it. May I say it is not "A" system but "The" system to use for a successful troop. In connection with the budget system the number of troops using the Concession Offer of Boys Life has increased 400 per cent in 1932, or from four to 16 troops.

Court of Honor—One thing stands out in our membership records as of the first of the year and that is the lack of progress through rank on the part of our boys, and this is not caused because of the boys' lack of interest but because the man power in our various Courts of Honor have failed to function properly. This is a serious condition. A year ago we had 56 per cent of our boys in the Tenderfoot rank, today we have 60 per cent, and this number is far too large. A year ago we had 30 per cent of our boys Second Class, today we have 22 per cent, this number is too small. Last year we had 14 per cent as First Class or higher, this year we have 16 per cent, and this number should be considerably higher.

Activity.

Leadership Training—Our report for the year shows that we had 74 men enrolled in our spring training schools. This is a very small percentage of the total men which should be accepting this opportunity. I particularly call the attention of the Administrative Center Chairman to the attendance of the men in each section and trust that through his leadership training committeeman they will enlist and recruit a larger number of men for 1933.

Camping—The camp of 1932 showed a considerable increase in attendance over 1931 and yet only a small percentage of our total membership is actually receiving the benefits of our summer camp program.

Last summer we enjoyed the first year on our Greene County site and I believe we have at last created a desire for camping that we have not had in the past. I commend a careful study of the camp report.

Supervision—At the beginning of 1932 we had enlisted five men to serve as Field Commissioners, and during the year in the Centers where these men are located they have endeavored to give of their service and we found a general improvement in troop work. As we go into 1933 we are happy to announce we have enlisted eight Field Commissioners, and are looking forward to enlisting four more.

Finance.

The report of the Treasurer and Chairman of Finance gives clearly the picture of our Receipts and Disbursements for the year of 1932.

Administration.

Administrative Center Organization—During 1932 our eight Administrative Center groups improved considerably over 1931.

Executive Board—The Executive Board of our Council has had nine regular meetings during the year. The attendance has been fair. Much has been accomplished but even greater things must be done this coming year.

Council Office—The office of your Council continues to be open every week-day during the working hours, and is endeavoring as best it can to serve the entire field in a most satisfactory manner.

General Activities.

This past year we have again operated the Inter-Troop Contest for our troops and we are happy to announce that Troop No. 23 of Ellenville has won for the second consecutive year. It has been decided, however, to discontinue this Inter-Troop Contest and in its place to inaugurate a Grading System. In this Grading System all troops can be winners if they make sufficient effort, and this we believe will have a decided advantage over the former contest.

Looking Ahead into 1933.

During the second week of February our Council is again planning to operate two County-wide Rallies, one in Kingston for Ulster county, and one in Catskill for Greene county.

1933 brings us to the inauguration of the Ten Year Plan of Scouting. Never before in the history of organized boys work has there been such a program developed to increase its usefulness among the boys of the nations. Our various Administrative Center Groups have each gone on record as in favor of this plan and are preparing to put the necessary machinery into operation. A study of the statistics of the report under the Committee on Troop Organization will show that we are reaching approximately one out of every four boys, but, we have not yet made our program effective enough to keep the boys in active troop relationship for a period of at least four years. This should be one of our major objectives in the days ahead.

I would like to make one plea with every man connected with our Council organization, and it is this: That his 1933 New Years resolution be to not only accept responsibility in Scouting but to make an earnest and honest effort to "work at" his job. I feel very certain that if every committeeman in this Council were to make a real effort during the year to carry out his responsibility that the end of the year will find a considerable increase in effectiveness of our work with boys.

I want at this time to express my appreciation for the splendid cooperation we have had during the past and to ask that you continue in 1933. The Ulster-Greene Council has a big opportunity in service for the boys of these two counties, and I sincerely hope that we will not be found wanting but that we will render real service to every boy of Scout age.

Respectfully submitted,
WILLIAM A. WRIGHT,
Scout Executive.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)

New York—The Ticker Tape Club, say dry agents, offered its Wall Street clientele not only surcease from care in the form of portable but soothing reminders of the good old days. When they dismantled the place, the agents carried away tasteful decorations consisting of charts of stock trends of the 1927-29 period, and old ticker tape showing soaring prices. Anent the charts on the wall, an employe said: "They made the customers feel better because the lines go up instead of down."

Thanks, Old Top.

Norristown, Pa.—When "Big Jake" Lehman was told his sentence for shooting Ralph Spanish had been commuted from death in the electric chair to life imprisonment, he rolled over on his bunk. "Thanks, warden," he murmured, contentedly. "Now I can finish my jig-saw puzzle."

His Contribution.

Farrell, Pa.—The Rev. Mathias Daroczy, pastor of the Magyar Presbyterian Church, not satisfied with voluntarily slashing his salary $15 a month, announced that henceforth no offerings will be accepted for baptisms, marriages or funeral services.

Frightened to Death.

Union City, Pa.—Unharmed as she fell between the wheels of a truck, Alice Rogers, 6, died of fright, the coroner's office said.

The vehicle passed over the child without touching her. The girl got up, scrampered away and fell dead at the curb.

Cows Cause Commotion.

Lansing, Mich.—Up in Grand Marais, Mich., they're going to hold the November 8 election over again.

As Attorney Patrick H. O'Brien understands it, there is no dispute about the election of Mr. Roosevelt, but a proposal to bar cows from the streets is causing all kinds of trouble.

The proposal carried at the election, but opponents contend visitors were permitted to vote.

Each to His Taste.

Chicago—The burglar who robbed the West End Pet Shop had discriminating ideas. He stole:

One monkey.
An opossum.
Four Japanese "spinning" mice.
Twenty-five "hooded" mice.
Two thousand other animals were left behind, including two trained alligators.

She's Gota Pull.

Carthage, Ill.—A team of horses is pulling for the education of a co-ed.

It was revealed that the father of the girl has agreed to haul coal for the college in return for the girl's education.

Never Says Quit.

Beatrice, Ind.—The sparks keep flying from the anvil of the village smithy.

He's James J. McCafferty, who at 84 keeps right on working at his forge every day. He's been at the job for 58 years.

Wants Her Snooze.

Chicago—Carl Johnson is under instructions from Judge Edward S. Scheffer to stop talking in his sleep.

"I didn't mind my husband mentioning another woman's name in his sleep," Mrs. Johnson said, "but I did object to being kept awake."

WHITFIELD.

Whitfield, Jan. 19.—Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Enderly spent Saturday in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wager, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sahler and son, were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Barley Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Davis and daughter, Marjorie, and Mrs. Della Davis were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Barley Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, Miss Mae Miller, and Miss Audria Patterson of Accord were entertained on Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Davis for supper.

SOCONY gasoline and Mobiloil Arctic and Start

NOTHING is quite so annoying or costly as a tussle with a starter that won't start. Every extra turn of the starter drains the life of the battery. Every tug on the choke rod releases raw gasoline which seeps down into the crankcase to dilute the oil.

Here's one sure remedy! Socony Gasoline and Mobiloil Arctic. With these winter-proof products, when you step on the starter, you start! Socony Gasolines are specially made to deliver quickest starting. They contain just the proper amount of what oil technologists call "low boiling points." Mobiloil Arctic, because it is a double-range winter oil, gives instant lubrication on coldest days plus complete protection at highest engine temperatures.

Free your mind of that question, "Will it start?" Stop in today at any Socony garage, dealer's or service station for a tankful of quick-starting Socony Gasoline and double-range Mobiloil Arctic.

High School Pupils Attend Concert

New Paltz, Jan. 19—The following high school students and teachers attended the concert given by the Don Cossack Russian Male Chorus and their director, Serge Jaroff, given in the auditorium of Free Academy in Newburgh on Monday night, January 16: The Misses Silva Fisher, Nora Osterhoudt, Henrietta and Margaret Wicks, Shirley Compton, Mildred LeFevre, Delia Tamney, Elaine Kniffen, Elizabeth Hasbrouck, Gladys Coy, Frances Buchanan, Ruth Van Valen, Esther LeFevre, Violet Schmalkauche, Mary Yost, Carolyn Yeaple, Blanche Gulnac, Elizabeth Cornell, Frances Levinson and Mrs. Thompson. A number of the Normal students also attended.

The 36 men of the Don Cossack Russian Male Chorus and their leader, Serge Jaroff, are former officers of the Russian Imperial Army. Their history as a singing unit dates back to the prison camp of Tschelengir, near Constantinople, where they were sent with the rest of the army after the defeat of General Wrangle. With their transport to Sofia, Bulgaria, they formed for a time the choir in the Russian Orthodox Church. The Don Cossacks made their concert debut in 1923. Since then they have sung throughout Europe, the British Isles, Australia and America. The Don Cossacks travel on "Nansen" passes, issued by the League of Nations to people without a country.

The program was as follows: Credo—A. Gretchaninoff, "I Believe in God, the Father Almighty. "The Burial of Our Lord", Tourchaninoff. Joseph of Armathea, upon receiving the body of Jesus for burial, wept, saying, "I behold Thee, who died for my sins! But in Thy death I sing thy glorious resurrection." "Have Mercy on Us, O God", Lvovsky. At vespers on Good Friday, this phrase is repeated 40 times. The diminuendo of the voices suggests the lowering of the cross; the gradual crescendo, the elevation. "We Sing to Thee", S. Rachmaninoff. We sing to Thee, we bless Thee, we thank Thee, O Lord. "God Preserve Us", Pchelnokoff. Prayer for the needs of the Russian Church, both at home and abroad as well as for all true believers. II—Bandura, D. Davidorsky. "Cossack Lullaby," arr. by Gretchaninoff. Sleep, my little one, sleep my sweet! dushi, du. "Two Folk Songs," arr. by I. Dobrowen. "Boat Song" and "The Home Land," Ehjuchnjem. Arr. by Serge Jaroff. "Russian Peasant Songs," arr. by K. Schwedoff. III—"On the Road to Petersburg," arr. by S. Jaroff. "The Bell Is Dreamily Dinkling," folk song. "The Two Guitars," arr. by K. Schwedoff. "Don Cossack Song," arr. by Gretchaninoff.

Letter Lies in Pocket 16 Years, Then Is Sent

Harlingen, Texas.—A letter written 16 years ago by a Harlingen boy to a friend in Maine has reached its destination, but the mail service was not responsible for the delay.

The letter was found by Rev. Francis M. Sander in a coat given to a Harlingen welfare organization. He mailed it to Roy Stanhope, the addressee, and it reached him though he had moved from Calais, Maine, to Lowell, Mass.

GAS BUGGIES—Be It Ever So Humble

Armory Doors to Open 7:30 Friday

The doors of the new armory will open at 7:30 Friday evening for the Kingston Shriners' Associations' big ball for the benefit of the children of the Industrial Home.

From 8 to 9 o'clock, Paul Zucca's largely augmented orchestra will render a concert during which time the patrons will have a splendid opportunity of looking over the new building, and from 9 to early morning dancing will be in order.

The new armory is spick and span and will prove a revelation as it is modern in every particular and is a welcome addition to the many fine public buildings already erected here. The new building is a real asset to the city.

Both Paul Zucca and John Erne are working hard preparing their programs of dance numbers and promise that the music they will furnish will be more than satisfying to the patrons.

The advance sale of tickets is very satisfying and those who have not already obtained their tickets can obtain them from any Shriner, or at the box office of the new armory Friday evening.

Automobile Case In County Court

Wednesday afternoon in county court two negligence actions were taken up for trial and a jury was taken and one witness sworn after which a recess was taken until the morning. When court opened Wednesday morning No. 19, was announced ready for trial and counsel in the other cases on the day calendar left under the impression that No. 19 would occupy the day. After eight jurors had been called the plaintiff and defendant got together and settled their differences and the court was left without a case. A recess was taken and at 2 o'clock when court convened after the noon recess Burton Davis was sworn and testified to the damage to the car involved in the two actions which had been moved for trial. Gustav Teichler, Kingston baker, and Walter S. Wells, driver of the bakery truck, seek damages from Irving J. Peer as a result of a collision on January 30, last.

Mr. Teichler seeks to recover about $200 for repairs to his truck and Wells seeks damages for personal injuries.

The accident took place on Albany avenue and Wells driving his truck north on the highway was about to turn into a driveway to a house. Plaintiff claims that he was taking a man home and had driven out the road to a point where he sought to turn to his left. He observed the Peer car coming down the road at a high rate of speed and turned his car onto the middle strip of concrete and stopped and that the Peer car which was coming south from Glasco was travelling at a high rate of speed and when the driver applied his brakes the car wavered and struck the bakery truck with such force as to turn it completely around. The Peer car then turned somersaults and came to rest on its side. In the car was Peer and a man named Briody.

The defendant's story is quite different. He contends that he was proceeding along the road at a reasonable rate of speed and that he observed a car coming up the road. Suddenly a car, the truck, swung from behind the first car and into his path. He attempted to avoid it. In opening the case, N. LeVan Haver, who appears for defendant, stated that he would produce a witness who had been driving the car ahead of the bakery truck and that witness would tell how at Foxhall avenue the truck fell in behind his car and followed him out the road very close behind, in fact so close that he was unable to see the approaching bakery truck by reason of the other car ahead which the truck was following very close. The defendant contends that the accident happened on the right strip of concrete where Peer had a right to be.

After Davis had testified to the repairs made by the Chevrolet people to the bakery truck, court recessed until this morning at 10 o'clock. Jurors not on the case on trial were excused until Monday afternoon.

Defendant further contends that Wells had suffered a previous injury to his leg and that any injury which he may now have was caused by that prior trouble and was not caused by the accident last January.

Robert J. Howard appears for the plaintiffs and N. LeVan Haver for the defendant.

Birthday Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Swarthout entertained friends and relatives at their home on TenBroeck avenue Monday afternoon and evening, in honor of Mrs. Swarthout's birthday. In the evening Mrs. Swarthout was most agreeably surprised by a party of friends from Kingston, Woodstock and vicinity, and they all had a most enjoyable time until midnight, when refreshments were served and a large birthday cake partaken of. It was some time later that all departed wishing Mrs. Swarthout many happy returns of the day.

Atharhacton Club.

The Atharhaction Club held its birthday dinner on Wednesday evening at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The dinner with its delicious menu and fine service was held in the private dining room, the club members being seated at a long table made very attractive with spring flowers. The place cards bearing the masks of comedy and tragedy were the artistic production of the chairman of the dinner committee, Miss Emily Hoysradt, and were particularly appropriate to the study subject of the club. The other members of the committee were Mrs. Carlton Preston and Miss Ethel Hull. Following the dinner, games of various sorts and a happy social time were enjoyed.

His 75th Birthday

Philip Slater of 223 Tremper avenue on Saturday, January 14, celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday and in honor of the event a number of his relatives and friends gathered at the home to help him properly observe the event. During the evening a birthday dinner was served and the large dining-room table was artistically decorated with cut flowers while in the center of the table stood the huge birthday cake appropriately trimmed. Mr. Slater was presented with a number of gifts, and those present at the celebration wished him many more happy birthdays. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Grant Smith of Hurley, Mr. and Mrs. G. Miller, Miss Beulah Thomson, Miss Mary Thompson, Miss Lillian and Miss Elvina Borgardus, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Lasher, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Stall and daughter Lois and son Billy, Mr. and Mrs. Slater and son Stafford.

Triangles Hear Of Mail Service Here

The Kingston Triangle Club's meeting Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. was the largest attended meeting held in some time and was greatly enjoyed by those present.

After the fine dinner prepared by Mrs. Buley and efficiently served by Mrs. Herman Schwenk and Miss Verna Van Deusen, the members sang a number of songs from the new song sheets provided by the secretary, Warren F. Smith, under the able leadership of General Secretary Clarence S. Schoonmaker, with Dan Ritter at the piano.

The resignation of Burt Leeman, who is moving from town, was accepted with regret and Merton C. McLoughlin, on behalf of the club, ably expressed their regret upon losing such a staunch member as Earl.

Dr. Julian L. Gifford, chairman of the program committee, introduced as guest speaker for the evening C. A. Raschke, of the local post office, who gave a splendid address on the workings of the mail service. Especially interesting was the history of the post office which Mr. Raschke gave from a different angle than is generally given. He also had with him a collection of cancelled stamps which he had collected and what aroused the interest of the fellows were the unique large pictures of the American flag and the United States government seal which upon close inspection were found to be made entirely out of cancelled stamps. The coloring in the pictures was the official colors. The address was thoroughly enjoyed and heartily applauded.

Next week another interesting program has been arranged and every member is urged to take advantage and be present.

Plan To Organize City's Unemployed

A meeting of the unemployed will be held at the Common Council Chambers in the city hall Friday evening at 7:30. All who are unemployed are invited to attend whether they are registered with the Work Relief Bureau or not. The purpose of the meeting is to effect a temporary non-partisan organization of the workers out of employment for their mutual help and welfare during the present unemployment crisis.

Sponsors hope that through the means of such organization considerable employment of a private nature will be stimulated and promoted. The organization will cooperate with the city and with the Work Relief Bureau to the end that public work be fairly and equitably apportioned and distributed. A clearance office in charge of the workers under the supervision of Peter C. Fiedler will be opened at 304 Broadway on Monday. There will be several speakers at the meeting Friday evening including former Mayor Palmer Hufsheld and City Assessor William P. Martin. The speakers will outline a constructive program for the workers so that they can be put in a position to help themselves to the maximum possible extent.

Scrip And Barter - - -

America's New Money Substitutes

(Editor's Note: Does America need more money? In the form of barter and scrip substitutes for money are springing up to aid the unemployed. This is the first of three articles discussing these developments.)

By J. R. BRACKETT

New York (AP)—Unemployed America is making a new "money"—not silver coins or greenbacks—but scrip used to build up barter.

Products worth millions of dollars are being "swapped" in the United States and between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 in some form of scrip money now is in circulation, according to the estimates of Jacob Baker, operations director of the Emergency Exchange association.

Many Groups Organized

About 150 groups are formally organized to facilitate this swapping which has sprung from the crossroads to the status of a real aid to the unemployed.

In their further development, Baker and others interested in barter's extension envisage the possibility of nationwide interchange of goods—and possibly the use of the "moneys" of the various exchanges among themselves to aid the process. Other economists doubt the system will reach much beyond local boundaries.

Many of the 150 exchanges already are using scrip, other tokens, either to represent the goods themselves, or with a real money backing in the form of special stamps sold for cash.

The Emergency Exchange association was organized by a group of business men, economists, engineers, lawyers and industrial consultants, for the purpose of bringing together idle men and the "idle" goods which the men want but cannot get through lack of purchasing power.

Association Fosters Move

Among the organizers were John Kirkland Clark, president of the New York State Board of Bar Examiners; Leland Olds, assistant chairman of the New York State Power Authority; Stuart Chase, economist; and Frank Graham, Princeton university economist.

The association is aiding in the development of exchanges in the east; in correlating information for guidance of other organizers throughout the country, and ultimately hopes to provide for exchange of goods and services among exchanges in different localities throughout the nation.

Barter starts with the simple swapping of, for instance, wheat for flour; or a few hours labor for food. As more individuals seek to fill their needs in this manner, a group of them will organize mutual exchange for the purpose of finding all possible exchanges that exist in a neighborhood. To this exchange, individuals may bring food, and obtain the labor or other goods they need.

Oats for a haircut! Real estate for coonskins! After a certain amount of such trade, a barter exchange is needed, and barter exchange needs money. The above shows some of the new "money" circulating in parts of the nation, issued to aid in bartering.

Thus in Los Angeles a jobless man went out to a farm and worked for a farmer for a day. For this work he received a sack of vegetables and foodstuffs—more than he could eat—so he gave some to the neighbors. From this and other similar happenings have developed 82 organized cooperative barter units, affecting 40,000 families in Los Angeles county.

In Inwood, N. Y., the unemployed got together and exchanged goods and services among themselves and with business people. They organized a mutual exchange. As it grew the organization of exchanges became rather difficult bookkeeping. To simplify matters, the exchange introduced its own scrip money, paid the laborers in scrip, and persuaded grocers and others to accept it. This paper is redeemable in goods and services, and has no other value. There is no legal money in the transaction.

In Hawarden, Iowa, the city government paid out $300 in scrip to the unemployed for road work. On the back of each note were 36 squares. Before each transaction the holder of the money had to fix a three-cent stamp, purchasable from the local government, before the money could pass.

When the money had been used 36 times, it could be redeemed for $1 in legal currency from the city government, the extra charge being for costs. If all the $300 turned over 36 times, it would accomplish $10,800 worth of business.

Here, there was no barter, but a possible extension of the movement, suggested by Baker, would be to add Hawarden's stamps to the barter tokens as used in Inwood. This gives the money double value—in goods, and in legal money. It could be exchanged at any time in full value for goods, and after a year in legal money if fully stamped.

The National Development association in Salt Lake City, Utah, has one of the largest of the barter movements. It uses plain barter scrip, without stamps, and does an estimated $20,000 a month business. Scrip also is used in Yellow Springs, Ohio, where Arthur Morgan, president of Antioch college, has organized an exchange which has in circulation about $1,000 in scrip.

(Tomorrow—What Is Money?)

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS BY ROSENDALE GRANGE

Rosendale, Jan. 19.—At the recent regular meeting of the Rosendale Grange, 1561, the annual installation of officers took place. Although weather conditions were anything but favorable, a goodly number of patrons witnessed these ceremonies, even a number of visitors braved the storm to attend.

The installing officer was Past Master Ross Osterhoudt of Stone Ridge Grange, assisted by Mrs. Charlotte Rogers and Mrs. Margareta Hotaling as marshals, Mrs. Lulu Mollenhauer as regalia bearer, and Miss Lena Kremper as emblem bearer.

The officers installed were as follows: Master, George Kennedy; overseer, Floyd Deitz; lecturer, Henry Mollenhauer; steward, Harry Freer; assistant steward, Grover Dunn; chaplain, Mrs. H. Stearns; treasurer, Dimmick Christiana; secretary, Mrs. M. Baxter; gatekeeper, John Bordenstein; Ceres, Hazel Conklin; Pomona, Carrie Brodsky; Flora, Ruth Paradies; lady assistant steward, Hazel Conklin; executive committee, Edward Brodsky.

Mr. Osterhoudt in his introductory address told what the Grange really meant to the rural people. He gave in detail how it fitted in the daily life of the farmer. He showed how educational, religious, moral and social side of the rural problems were solved in the Grange.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served made up of patrons from Tillson.

The next regular meeting will be held on Monday, January 23, in the Odd Fellows' rooms. The lecturer has a fine musical program arranged and a good attendance is looked for.

Important Points From Dean Stanley's Address

Dean Stanley as president, presided for the first time at the Annual Staff meeting of the Benedictine Hospital, presenting the statements of both the statistical and financial reports to the members of the Benedictine Staff.

Among his remarks Dean Stanley remanded the doctors of the need of continual cooperation on the part of each staff member. He encouraged the doctors to be faithful in their attendance at the monthly staff meetings as this was necessary for both the welfare of the patient and the continual growth of the hospital. Doctors should likewise feel responsible and comply with the written law of the state which requires them to communicate with the welfare commissioners of both city and county before they send their patients to the hospital for treatment.

Our hospital should continue to be second to none, and this high standard will be maintained only by the continued efforts and efficiency of each staff member. It has always been a well known fact that the best advertisement of any hospital is the commendation of its satisfied patients, and so our ideal of service must ever be the highest. Then truly will we be living up to the meaning of the emblem that tops our institution, namely the cross. Serving thus, our efforts will be permeated with the spiritual as well as the temporal and our work will be pleasing to both God and man.

Missionary Meeting

JOHN W DAVIS

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the eleventh of a series of articles picturing briefly men and women mentioned for posts in the Roosevelt cabinet.)

The silver-haired John W. Davis, well-known New York lawyer, is among the heavy favorites of those political prophets who are telling the public about the personnel of the next cabinet.

They somehow can't seem to picture a cabinet without the eloquent standard-bearer of the party in 1924 being offered a high seat in it.

Membership in the house of representatives, solicitor general of the United States, and ambassador to the Court of St. James—all have been roadmarks along his way to fame.

None of his political honors has been of his own seeking. Although it is perhaps for his public service that Davis is best known to his countrymen, he long has been rated one of America's outstanding lawyers.

He was born at Clarksburg, W. Va., April 13, 1873, and educated at Washington and Lee University.

Policeman Plays Parson

When the vicar of Edgware, England, fell a victim of the flu and was unable to conduct services in his church, a police sergeant volunteered to act for him. Not only did he conduct the services as if he were thoroughly accustomed to the task, says the Montreal Star, but he gave an eloquent sermon. Many of the congregation thought he was a visiting parson.

GET RID OF INDIGESTION IN A FEW MINUTES, OR

Get Your Money Back

"Bi-sod-ic" and milk of magnesia only make poor imitations when you want some fast-acting means to digest and relieve acid indigestion, so it cannot ferment and you feel fine to eat.

Pepto-Bismol is a scientific combination of intestinal astringent and gentle alkalizer that relieves indigestion in two ways by stopping the souring of food and overabundance of acid and the decay of fermentation. Two medicines in Pepto-Bismol for prompt relief and both are two of the most widely known to physicians. Read them on the label.

Also, Pepto-Bismol is not a laxative, nor does it act as a purgative. By the Non-Proprietary Pharmacal Council, many physicians have advised the public that the medicines in Pepto-Bismol have held the respect of physicians, druggists, and the public, alike, for many years, and druggists have sold it for years.

If Pepto-Bismol does not get rid of your indigestion, distress after eating, heartburn and sour, acid stomach, in a few minutes, get your money back from your druggist. Buy Genuine Pepto-Bismol in tablets. Price 50c.

But don't be persuaded to accept merely any substitute for Pepto-Bismol. Insist on getting Pepto-Bismol. Ask for the name Pepto-Bismol. Do not be misled. Refuse the unfair offer of something said to be "just as good" which may be offered because of the greater profit. Ask for Pepto-Bismol by name and get what you want.

Depression Likely To Bring Major Changes In Banking

By BYRON PRICE

(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

A major operation on the American banking system now seems an inevitable part of the surgical treatment in store for the body politic as a result of the ills of the depression.

It is true the prospect for any quick action is waning. Democratic differences, including the senate filibuster, greatly becloud the outlook for the pending Glass bill, and it is not certain that banking legislation will be included in the task set for the special session after March 4.

Even though time and much delicate preparation may be necessary, however, there appears in Washington a growing conviction that something must be done.

Slow To See Errors.

The very important relation of banking to the course of the depression is something which public officials in general have been slow to realize.

A few minor changes were proposed here and there, but for a long time the disposition was to place basic reliance on the universally recognized strength of the federal reserve system and assume nothing really could be wrong so long as that system continued to function.

But only one-third of the banks of the country were members of the reserve system, and even some of them developed weaknesses. Entirely outside the system lay a great field of banking, including some very strong institutions and many weak ones and comprising in addition to the national banks a great host chartered under the differing local banking laws of forty-eight states.

What it has come to is that thousands of American depositors are mourning their losses, while no depositor in the banks of England, Canada or France has lost a dollar of those deposits since the depression began.

"Failed Banks Unsound."

Writing in the Magazine of Wall Street, Theodore M. Knappen quotes a high banking authority as saying:

"In the last four years there have been 5,560 bank failures in the United States, and 5,500 of them (the failed banks) were unsound."

Speaking for his bill in the senate, Senator Glass referred repeatedly to the existence of that type of bank which he described as "the little pawnshop that topples over and creates a psychology that eventually topples over the larger and sounder banks."

Whether the branch bank proposal embodied in the Glass bill would provide a remedy is a matter of wide disagreement, as the senate debate has testified. Another step favored by some authorities and opposed by others would do away entirely with the existing forty-nine varieties of bank control and consolidate all national and state banks into a single system.

Important Problem.

Considering the intricate relation of banking to the economic life of the nation, the problem of bank legislation may easily be one of the two or three most important with which the new administration will have to deal.

And the responsibility for leadership will rest heavily on President Roosevelt and his secretary of the treasury, for congress appears minded to do something without knowing exactly which way to turn.

"Little Stories for Bedtime" by Thornton W. Burgess

THE FOOLISH QUARREL

GREED doesn't pay. It never does. And yet some people never seem to learn this. Just take the case of Happy Jack Squirrel and his cousin, Chatterer the Red Squirrel. In the Green Forest were ever so many hickory trees, and there were more nuts than Happy Jack and Chatterer could eat in a lifetime. But both were so greedy that here they were quarreling over the nuts which the Merry Little Breezes had shaken down from the top of a tall chestnut tree.

Happy Jack claimed all those brown nuts were his because he had happened to be right under that particular tree when the Merry Little Breezes shook them down. Chatterer had been near enough to hear them as they rattled down and had come running over to get a share. At once Happy Jack had tried to drive him away. Chatterer had refused to go. In fact, at the sight of all those nuts on the ground Chatterer had at once decided that he would have all of them. You see he was quite as greedy as Happy Jack. Those brown nuts didn't really belong to either of them, and wouldn't until they had been picked up and hidden away. But Happy Jack and Chatterer didn't stop to think of this. Each was so greedy that he wasn't willing to let the other have a single one.

Then as They Grew Angrier and Angrier, They Began to Fight.

"Thief!" shouted Happy Jack.

"Robber!" cried Chatterer.

"No such thing! They're all mine because I found them first," sputtered Happy Jack.

"Pig, pig, pig!" shouted Chatterer, thrusting out his tongue at Happy Jack.

Do you wonder that the Merry Little Breezes, who had thought to help Happy Jack and Chatterer, looked down in dismay and stopped shaking down the brown nuts? Do you wonder that Sammy Jay, hearing those sharp angry voices, came stealing silently up to see what such a dreadful quarrel was about? You can depend on it that Sammy will be somewhere about when anything like that is going on.

At first Happy Jack and Chatterer were content to scold and call each other bad names. Then as they grew angrier and angrier they began to fight, each trying to drive the other away. Happy Jack, as you know, is a great deal bigger than Chatterer, but Chatterer is quicker and more nimble, and his teeth are quite as sharp as Happy Jack's. So it wasn't as uneven a fight as you might think. They forgot the brown nuts lying there among the leaves on the ground. They forgot everything but their anger. They chased each other around the trees and up in the trees, all the time losing their tempers more and more.

Now their little cousin, Striped Chipmunk, wasn't far away, and of course he heard that dreadful quarrel. He pricked up his ears. Then he stole softly over to see what it was all about. Happy Jack and Chatterer didn't see him. They didn't see anything or anybody but each other. Striped Chipmunk watched them for a few minutes. Then he spied the brown nuts which the Merry Little Breezes had shaken down. His bright eyes sparkled. He chuckled.

"I suspect," said he, "that these are what they are quarreling about. How silly. How very foolish. These nuts belong to anyone who can get them. They are as much mine as theirs."

Without wasting another minute Striped Chipmunk stuffed the pockets in his cheeks with those brown nuts until he couldn't get another one in. Then away he scurried. Pretty soon he was back again. He paid no attention to his quarreling cousins, but stuffed his pockets again and was off to his secret storehouse.

Back and forth he scurried, working with might and main. He knew that once Happy Jack and Chatterer stopped quarreling and discovered him they would drive him away, and he would have to go because he was too little to fight.

Sammy Jay watched him and chuckled. The Merry Little Breezes saw him and they chuckled. But his two big cousins were still fighting and saw only each other. At last Happy Jack and Chatterer had to stop for breath. They were too tired to run and fight any longer. But still each was determined that the other shouldn't have those brown nuts. Happy Jack looked down to gloat over the treasure he had been fighting for. Then he gave a little gasp. Not a single brown nut was to be seen. Chatterer did the same thing. For a few minutes both forgot their quarrel and raced down to pull over the leaves in search of those nuts. Not one was to be found. Their foolish quarrel had been for nothing, just nothing at all.

Base Ball Once "Rounders"

The modern game of baseball is the outgrowth of the old English game of rounders, which was gradually changed into the present game. The Knickerbocker club in New York city was the first organized club devoted to baseball, its organization occurring in 1845. The game grew in popularity until the first professional league was established in 1871. From that point on the game grew rapidly in public favor.

A Closed Mouth

The older one gets, the more we realize it is better to keep one's opinion to oneself until we get a fair statement of the other fellow's viewpoint. Then weigh the matter, and if you are wrong, be big enough to own up and accept the new outlook. It makes for bigger and better people.

Money Does the Trick

With money you can escape most of the nuisances of life if not the griefs.

HE'S "TOO NICE," SO RICH BRIDE SUES

Unfailing Consideration Is Too Much to Bear.

Cleveland—If the decision of Judge Alva Corlett in an annulment case involving a wealthy society girl is to be taken as a criterion, it's just as much an offense against a wife to smother her with kindness as it is to shower her with blows.

The unusual ruling arises out of the annulment suit involving Marion Conelly and William Graham Abell of Warren, Ohio, who married in haste and apparently repented soon afterward.

Marion, daughter of Brig. Gen. L. S. Conelly, of the Ohio National Guard, and popular debutante, married young Abell last March. She quickly found out it was all a mistake.

Her young husband, she complained to her parents, simply was "too nice" to her. He gave her everything and did everything, whether she asked for it or not. Marion cried. Why didn't he stop it? was her wail to her parents. She preferred that he give her nothing and do nothing.

They spoke to young Abell about it, but there was no change. The young man just couldn't help himself. Being kind was his particular fault, he told her parents. Marion would just have to take it or leave it.

Marion preferred to leave it. She got her parents to go to Judge Corlett's Domestic Relations court and institute suit for annulment of her marriage.

They did, alleging young Abell had been "too nice" to her, and that Marion had tired of her youthful husband as a result. Those were the only grounds Marion's parents could offer for the broken romance.

Naturally, dignified Judge Corlett was astounded at the unique plea for annulment. But apparently he was convinced later that an annulment should be granted.

He granted it, at the same time telling Marion's father that both the former wife and her husband should be spanked. The stern militaristic brigadier-general agreed with him.

English Doctor Stops Fights Among Africans

London.—An African chief eating kola nut with pepper and salt from the edge of a razor blade during an intertribal peace ceremony is among the things witnessed by Dr. Melville D. Mackenzie during a recent visit to Liberia as special commissioner of the League of Nations council.

Mackenzie, a Scottish doctor on the league secretariat, co-operated with the Liberian government in a successful effort to pacify Kru tribes who, having come into conflict with the government and with each other, had fled into the bush. Forty-four towns had been burned and at least 12,000 men, women and children were in a state of advanced starvation as the result of the disputes.

The success of Mackenzie's mission involved settling tribal quarrels about land, women, canoes, and palm trees. Finally he managed to stop all fighting and disarmed the natives. He taught them how to mark out boundaries and build houses, and himself carried out their first land survey.

Patient for 47 Years In State Hospital Dies

Ionia, Mich.—Andrew Stutte, seventy-six years old, a patient at the Ionia State hospital 47 years and its oldest patient, is dead. He will be buried in the hospital cemetery as there is no record of relatives. No one had visited him in years. Stutte was one of the patients sent to the hospital on its opening day, September 7, 1885. He came from the Michigan State prison at Jackson where he had been sentenced from Detroit in 1879 for robbery armed. Stutte was allowed the freedom of the grounds as a trusty and worked often as a member of the carpenter crew.

Wedding Ring Lost 38 Years Ago Is Returned

Coopersville, Mich.—Her own wedding ring, lost 38 years ago, was among the "gifts" received by Mrs. G. Schiele when she and her husband celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary here recently. The ring was unearthed last summer by a nephew, plowing a field on a farm the couple formerly occupied near Medaryville, Ind.

Declared Dead by Court, He Returns

Kenton, Ohio.—George F. Romy of Des Moines, Iowa, arrived here after an absence of 16 years to visit his mother, Mrs. S. H. Runyon. Romy some years ago had been declared legally dead.

Sixteen years ago Romy left Rich Hill, Mo., to attend the United States Naval academy. After three and a half years he left the academy to work on a Pacific coast merchant ship.

A short time ago he went to Des Moines, Iowa, as an accountant for a New York firm.

In the meantime he had been declared dead by a court at Rich Hill on the petition of his father, who sought to collect a $1,000 insurance policy. The father and mother were divorced many years ago.

Business Girls Had Thrift Talk

National Thrift Week was celebrated by the Business Girls Club on Wednesday evening of this week with one of the finest talks the girls have ever had. Frank W. Mason, vice-principal of the Saugerties High School was the speaker and while his subject was primarily Thrift, he gave the girls a short but very comprehensive talk on three important economic problems of today, stressing in particular the international aspect of each. Mr. Mason first discussed debts and reparations and spoke of the various attitudes of England, France, Germany and America on this important subject. Secondly, Mr. Mason took up the subject of the present depression stating that the problem was not one of overproduction but of mal-distribution. Thirdly, he spoke of tariff, which unquestionably from the international standpoint has many evils which have developed under the protective system built up during the last 150 years.

Following the talk the class in limbering exercises gave a very interesting exhibition of the term's work and plans were completed for a new class which will be started on Wednesday evening, January 25 at 7:30 o'clock. All girls interested are urged to sign up at the Y. W. C. A. office before that date. Miss Helen Gronemeyer announced the card party to be given by the Schubert Choral Club of the Y. W. C. A. on Saturday afternoon, January 21, at the Governor Clinton Hotel at 2 o'clock. Tickets may be obtained at the office or through any members of the club.

Miss Phillips announced that the Industrial Girls of the Y. W. will hold a card party next Tuesday evening, at 7:30 in the gymnasium. This was not being run in competition with the Schubert Choral Club and she urged the girls to make an effort to attend at least one of the parties if not both. Next week the speaker will be Mrs. William C. Kingman who will give a talk on Paris and Italy. All members were urged to attend.

Nature didn't intend milk to meet the open air

. . . that's why milk NEEDS the protection we give it on every Dairylea farm

MILK is nature's most perfect food. But remember this: Nature intended milk to pass directly from one creature to another—without the slightest exposure to outside elements.

Milk, as it comes from a healthy cow, is as pure and wholesome as it can be. From that point on, the quality of milk depends upon what is kept out of it—upon keeping the milk as clean and pure as it was when taken from the cow.

That's why, on 48,000 Dairylea farms, we use the utmost care. Immediately after milking, we filter the milk . . . cool it quickly . . . handle it only in sterilized utensils . . . keep it in a room or building used for milk and milk alone.

That, also, is why our collecting stations inspect every can of milk from every Dairylea farm every day. We accept milk only from cows that are sound and healthy. We utterly reject any milk that, through temperature, appearance, or odor, gives evidence of unwholesome exposure. Such milk we refuse to sell at any price!

No one farmer or small group of farmers could equal Dairylea's complete protection. But the Dairymen's League provides it willingly—at a cost of much time, effort, and money—to earn your milk business. For your benefit as well as our own, we ask one question: DOES YOUR MILK HAVE THIS PROTECTION?

Our Pledge: We, the 48,000 farmers of the Dairymen's League, recognize a definite obligation to the public. Since milk is nature's most perfect food, we pledge ourselves, in the production of Dairylea milk, to do all within our power to safeguard its purity and quality.

MRS. SARAH BARRINGER TO CELEBRATE 88TH BIRTHDAY

West Shokan, Jan. 19—On January 27 Mrs. Sarah Barringer, of Shokan, who bears the distinction as being the daughter of a Revolutionary patriot, Benjamin Buley, will have reached her 88th birthday. It has been a custom for several years previous for friends and neighbors to gather at her home for a birthday celebration. Last year this pleasure was foregone on account of Mrs. Barringer being in a temporary state of ill health. However, she was greatly cheered by receiving a shower of letters and cards from members of the Shokan and West Shokan Ladies' Aid societies and other friends. This grand old lady is fortunately in better health than last year and is looking forward eagerly for the usual gathering on her birthday. However, a still added pleasure would be another greeting shower remembrance as deluged her last year. Despite her age Mrs. Barringer is remarkably alert and keeps posted on neighborhood happenings. She reads and sews and two years ago made a beautiful tucked cushion for the West Shokan Church fair.

Cost of Medical Care Told to Rotary Club

medical service is, in the committee's opinion, reasonable."

Number of Doctors.

"Regarding the facts of medical service, the committee found the following points of interest," counted the speaker. "Nearly 1,160,000 persons in the United States devote all or a large part of their time to providing medical service, and from it derive their livelihood."

"There were in 1930 nearly 7,000 hospitals with a total capacity of slightly under 1,000,000 beds. Nearly 5,000 clinics and out-patients departments of hospitals, about 60,000 drug stores, and a small number of private laboratories and other medical institutions are available. Every state and large city, many of the smaller cities, and a few rural areas are now served by health departments with full time personnel. These are the facilities on which the American people rely for the prevention and cure of disease."

"Most of the money spent directly by the people for medical care, the figures show, goes for the treatment of illness, and only a very small proportion goes for public health."

Professional incomes were next taken up by the speaker. "The committee found that medical practitioners' incomes are distributed very unevenly," said Dr. Crispell. "Some incomes are inadequate for a large number of practitioners, while they are more than adequate for some others. The medium net income was found to be $3,000, the average net income was $5,300. One third of all private practitioners receive less than $2,500 net. The difference between the specialist and the general practitioner regarding incomes is the former receives an average net income of $10,000, while the latter receives an average net income of $4,000.

"Looking at the cost of medical care as an industry, the committee found that over $3,500,000,000 is invested in land, buildings, equipment and endowment of hospitals and clinics in the United States. The total capital invested in hospitals, physicians' equipment, etc., totals $5,850,000," said Dr. Crispell.

Uneven Distribution

Regarding the distribution of medical care, Dr. Crispell gave some interesting data found by the committee. They found that there is great need for a geographical distribution of practitioners and agencies which more closely approximate the medical requirements of the people. In the rural and semi-rural areas, the current expenditures for medical care are insufficient to insure even approximately adequate service, to support necessary facilities, and to insure satisfactory remuneration to the practitioners. The committee also was of the opinion that there should be a larger opportunity of many practitioners to earn larger net incomes than they now receive. This is particularly true of well trained recent graduates, who frequently must practice for five to ten years before they attain an adequate income.

Summing up other findings of the committee, Dr. Crispell continued by saying, "There needs to be better control over the quality of medical service, and the chance for improving quality as rapidly in the future as it has been improved in the past. Practice by unqualified 'cult' practitioners should be eliminated, and control should be exercised over the practice of secondary practitioners, such as mid-wives, chiropodists and optometrists. The practice of specialties should be restricted to those with special training and ability; more opportunity for postgraduate study should be available for physicians, particularly rural practitioners; and there should be constant chances for physicians to exchange experiences and assist each other. The work of certain physicians and dentists, who even though they are regularly licensed are nevertheless not competent for many functions, should be closely controlled and improved through supervision and further education.

"There should be more effective control over the number and type of practitioners trained, and their training should be adjusted so that it will prepare them to serve the true needs of the people.

"There is a need for reduction of waste in many different directions. Substantial sums are wasted on unnecessary medication, on the services of poorly qualified or utterly unqualified "cultists," in the idle time of physicians, dentists, nurses and other practitioners, in the high "overhead" of private medical and dental practice, in unused hospital accommodations, and in the time of patients who go from place to place seeking medical service.

"The prevailing methods of purchasing medical care have unsatisfactory consequences. They lead to unwise and undirected expenditures, to unequal and unpredictable financial burdens for the individual and the family, to neglect of health and of illness, to inadequate expenditures for medical care, and often to inequable expenditures for medical care, and often to inequable remuneration of practitioners. There needs to be some plan whereby the unequal and sometimes crushing burden of medical expenses can be distributed.

"The per capita expenditure in the U. S. for medicines is $5.49 while for public health work, local, state and federal, is only $1.00."

Other findings of the committee were discussed by Dr. Crispell during the course of his talk. Among them were the committee's ideas as to the essentials of a satisfactory medical program, the value and development of Community Medical Centers, governmental aid regarding the cost of medical care, health insurance, health councils, and a host of other interesting data offered by the committee.

In closing his enjoyable discussion, Dr. Crispell stated that the report of the committee has naturally been the subject of much controversy. The minority report on this subject, signed by eight physicians, is incorporated, and represents the attitude of the American Medical Association, and the Medical Profession at large. Dr. Crispell also stated that the report was found revolutionary by the Journal of the American Medical Profession, with the Journal advocating evolutionary processes instead.

In conclusion, Dr. Crispell was of the opinion that the problem of the Costs of Medical Care has no solution at hand. "The problem," said the speaker, "is a vast one, and is linked up with larger economic and social problems. It would be interesting to review the problem in relation to local conditions, and a definite beginning would be the formation of a local Ulster County Health Council that would coordinate lay and medical endeavors."

One of the most salient points of Dr. Crispell's entire discussion was his personal viewpoint in regard to the dispensation of free medical service to the masses. It was his belief that such a method of procedure would totally disregard the reactions of human nature. "Were such a thing made possible," said Dr. Crispell, "many neurotic types of humans would take advantage of it. There are hundreds of people who have no physical or mental ailments, who take a special joy in consulting doctors whenever the opportunity arises, and were medical advice given free, doctors everywhere would be harassed by these individuals, and the doctor would not have the time to care for those people who really needed his services. The way it is now, anyone can consult a doctor, but the fact that they must pay a fee for his advice protects the doctor from the neurotic type that would otherwise take up his entire time to the detriment of those who really need his help."

President Joseph Morgan complimented the speaker on behalf of the club for his exceptionally timely talk, and expressed the hope that the club members would have the opportunity of hearing Dr. Crispell again at some later date.

Babies in Japan Must Not Cry; Have No Fear

Few persons have ever seen a little Japanese in tears, because in Japan the children are taught from earliest infancy not to cry.

They are schooled to bear pain, disappointment and all the other little troubles that sometimes reduce western children to tears, with courage and fortitude.

One often sees little Japanese boys standing before their elders with straddled legs and unblinking eyelids, while swords are sent whistling past their noses.

Again and again the sword comes rushing down, but the little boy never moves—always there is a faint smile on his lips, a smile that says: "This is the way to face danger."

Again, all Japanese children are poets. This is no idle statement, but a recognized fact, and travelers report that, although they have visited villages in Japan where the inhabitants are too poor to offer the visitor a cup of tea, they are all able to write poems to their gods and their shrines.

The children of Japan are always happy, not because they are rich, well-fed, or live in nice houses, but because they are taught from the very beginning to look on the sunny side of life and to fear neither man nor beast.—Detroit News.

Gladstone Knew Homer; He Had Memorized Poems

It has been stated that Gladstone was not a great Homeric scholar. This depends on what scholarship means (asserts a correspondent). If to know the poems nearly by heart makes a Homeric scholar—you could give him a line anywhere and he could go on without the book to the bottom of the page—he certainly did deserve the title. On the other hand, and as already indicated in the earlier paragraph, his surmises and deductions were scoffed at by professional scholars. Dean Liddell, of the lexicon, in a letter to his son, poured scorn on Gladstone's Homeric lecture at the Oxford union in 1890, and a great scholar and wit of the time crystalized the orthodox point of view in the epigram, "He has deserted a field in which he has no rival for one in which he has few inferiors."—Montreal Herald.

The Castles of Normandy

Less than half a century after the battle of Hastings, Normandy was the center of a vast Anglo-Angevin kingdom which stretched from Scotland to the Pyrenees. Those were the days when men felt more secure inside castle walls than around conference peace tables, and great forts were built everywhere, to which the modern tourist makes trails today. William the Conqueror built and fortified the Chateau at Caen, another was the fortress at Dieppe, while close by can be seen the crumbling remains of the romantic castle of Arques. Other castles are to be found, as those of Gisons, Gaillard, built by Richard the Lion Hearted, till finally the massive Abbey Fort of Mount Saint Michael on the sea coast completes the picture.

Thunderstorm Rays

Two South African scientists claim to have discovered evidence that thunderstorms give off rays of great penetrative force. They caught these rays in a Geiger-Muller counter, the same instrument now widely used to count or register cosmic rays. While they do not know definitely what kind of rays they caught, they believe them to have been generated by lightning. They suggest that the rays may be migratory electrons or particles of electricity shot upward from storms. Such rays were registered only 20 to 30 miles from the storm. Directly under the storm there were no rays.—Pathfinder.

The Old Album

During recent years, since we have become so sophisticated, a lot of smart cracks have been made about the hours we used to spend looking at the old family album. In its time it was not an unpleasant entertainment, and I never heard of anyone going to jail because of looking into the photographic records one of them contained. Because a custom is old is no reason to believe that it is not a good one; that honesty is the best policy is an old saying, but no one has ever been able to beat it.—Don Wright in Crane Chronicle.

Poor Plumber Died Wealthy

Immigrant Scot named George McCaul, who went to New Zealand as a poor apprentice plumber, died at the age of ninety-six, in Auckland, with a fortune of $1,250,000. He took part in a New Zealand gold rush, but after failing at that, for 46 years worked in modest quarters at his trade of plumbing, almost until his death. He lived austerely with a niece. He gave $250,000 to war relief funds, half the rest was absorbed by taxes and the remainder has been shared by two nieces.

Brown Trout Larger Than Others

Brown trout were introduced to the United States from Europe in 1883. Brown trout reach maturity at approximately 24 months, and attain a much larger size than brook trout. Brown trout eggs hatch in exactly the same period of time as do brook trout eggs under the same conditions, and their fry subsist on the umbilical sac for the same period as do brook trout fry.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 19 (AP).—The stock market derived some encouragement from wheat today.

Prices were about steady at the start, and developed moderate strength after the opening of the Chicago wheat market, where prices rose about a cent a bushel in the early trading. Several stocks were carried up 1 to 2 points, but trading remained extremely sluggish.

American Tobacco B advanced more than 2, and issues getting up about 1 to 1½ included American Telephone, American Can, Allied Chemical, Eastman, Corn Products, Goodyear, Liggett and Myers B, New York Central, Union Pacific, Case, and U. S. Steel common and preferred. Recent soft spots such as National Dairy and some of the chain store issues, were steady. Lambert, however, developed special heaviness, losing more than a point.

Brokerage sentiment, as gauged by market advices, appeared to have turned rather cautious. Important elements of uncertainty were still the probable actions on the dividends of U. S. Steel preferred and American Telephone. The first steel company to issue its fourth quarterly report was Gulfstates. Compilation from the quarterly reports indicates a loss for the year of $518,312, a sharp reduction from the loss of $976,226 in 1931. A less favorable showing, however, is indicated for the larger steel makers, which have experienced unprecedented deficits in 1932.

The United States foreign trade figures for December, showing exports of $126,000,000 and imports of $97,000,000, attracted some attention. Imports dropped relatively more sharply than exports, but this may have been in part due to lower prices for foreign goods. The decline in exports appeared moderate, in view of the usual seasonal trend. The country's foreign trade for the full year fell to the lowest levels, as measured by dollar value, since 1905.

About the Folks

The many friends and patrons of Mrs. George D. Logan, beautician of 68 Garden street, who has been seriously ill, will be pleased to learn that her condition today is somewhat improved.

HYATT ELECTED HEAD OF REAL ESTATE BOARD

Following a luncheon held by the members of the Kingston Real Estate Board at Von Berg's restaurant, January 18, officers for 1933 were elected: Frank S. Hyatt, president; George W. Moore, vice president; Arthur J. Burns, treasurer; Max L. Reben, secretary. Directors: Nathanial B. Gross, Sam N. Mann, Schuyler C. Schultz and James E. Snead. Arthur J. Burns was elected to represent the Kingston Real Estate Board as a director in the New York State Association of Real Estate Boards.

The Kingston Realtors were enthusiastic with regard to the real estate opportunities for the year 1933 reporting many inquiries some of which have already developed into satisfactory business.

DECLARES GAP TOO LARGE BETWEEN HIDE AND WEARER

West Shokan, Jan. 19—Behold how the mighty have fallen. Cow hides a few years back brought a dime or better per pound, now they fetch just one lovely cent. But let a farmer price a pair of Sunday shoes and he needs the going price of a half dozen hides to buy just a medium priced outfit. That surely seems entirely too large a gap between hide and wearer.

Killed When Auto Hits Trolley.

Stratford, Conn., Jan. 19 (AP).—While going home today for the week-end Deforest Jameson, 20, son of Dr. Louis Blair Jameson of 183 Pinehurst avenue, Hudsonview Gardens, New York, and a junior at Yale University, was killed and a companion was hurt when their car collided head-on with a trolley car in Stratford avenue.

Mrs. Sarah Keating Scully, widow of John J. Scully, engineer, who was killed in a railroad accident on the Ulster & Delaware several years ago, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Duffy, in New York city this morning. Mrs. Scully had many friends in Kingston, having resided here all her life until two years ago when she went to live with her daughter in New York. Besides her daughter, Florence, wife of John Duffy, Mrs. Scully is survived by two sons, John of Kingston, and William of New York city; three brothers, John and Michael Keating of Kingston and Charles Keating of DuMont, N. Interment will be in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Ryan, one of Kingston's oldest residents, who died on Monday last following a very brief illness, was held from the late home, 91 Downs street, this morning at 9 o'clock, thence to St. Joseph's Church where at 9:30 a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of her soul by the Rev. Edwin Burke. St. Joseph's children's choir, augmented by the voices of Miss Margaret Messinger and Thomas Dolan, sang the responses during the Mass, and at the offertory Miss Messinger sang very feelingly "Ave Maria." The floral tributes from a host of sorrowing relatives and friends were many and beautiful. Numerous spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards were placed near the casket. Six nephews of deceased acted as casket bearers. At the conclusion of the Mass Mr. Dolan sang "Face to Face" and as the body was borne from the church "Jesus, Jesus, Come to Me." The large funeral cortege was accompanied to St. Mary's Cemetery by the Rev. Father Burke, who pronounced the final absolution at the grave as the body was laid to rest in the family plot.

James Fay, a former Saugertiesian, died in New York city on Tuesday afternoon at an advanced age. The body was taken to Saugerties this afternoon and conveyed by Keenan & Son to St. Mary's Cemetery for burial in the family plot. Mr. Fay went to New York city from Saugerties and established himself in the antique furniture business on West 42nd street where he amassed a competence by his successful business methods. For a number of years Mr. Fay was generally recognized as the foremost expert in the United States on early colonial furniture. After disposing of his business to the John Wanamaker stores and the building to Stern Bros., Mr. Fay became an appraiser of antique furniture at the U. S. Customs House in New York city. Mr. Fay's death removes the last of his family, his sister being buried in St. Mary's cemetery about two years ago. Mr. Fay never married. Leaves Hold Moisture

Leaves covering the ground not only hold a large amount of rainfall themselves, but they keep the "pores" of the soil open and allow it to absorb more moisture than land not so covered.

Legion Behind Boxing Show for The Unemployed

Crowd Expected at Scraps in Old Armory Next Monday Night—Heavyweight Matches Promise Real Fighting.

Commander Sam N. Mann has announced that the American Legion hopes for the success of the benefit boxing show for the unemployed at the old armory on Broadway Monday night, January 23, and will cooperate with those in charge to help put the enterprise over in a big way.

With the Legion behind the move, Doc. Studer, matchmaker, feels that the benefit cannot fail in its purpose and that a nice sum will be realized for the Volunteer Aid Committee, the treasury of which has already received money from boxing bouts in the armory.

Because of the reason for which the show is being promoted, and the fact that the program of heavyweight scraps promises some heavy slugging, a record crowd is anticipated.

The card is scheduled for 36 rounds in all, the top attraction being the pairing between Willie Barrow, Poughkeepsie negro, and "Sam" Larkin, of the Eddie Sexton table in Brooklyn. Jerry Wright will tackle Joe Barna of Brooklyn in the semi-final sixer. The only match on the card that is not between heavyweights is the Mickey Raymond vs. Bob Smith pairing. Raymond is from Flatbush and has a large following. Smith is a Poughkeepsie slugger and is expected to give Mickey a real test.

Starting time of the bouts is 8:30. Those desiring good seats are advised to be on hand early, especially the ladies, many of whom are expected to attend the benefit show.

Dart Baseball Proving Popular

The Men's Club of the Church of the Comforter, which is a very active body of men, some time ago made two large baseball boards to be used for the game known as dart baseball. The men of the club play at the Comforter Hall every Tuesday night.

The Comforter men realized that closer fellowship could be had with other men's clubs if a baseball league were organized so a committee was appointed, a schedule was approved and the following men's clubs joined: Ponckhockie Congregational, St. Paul Lutheran, Clinton Avenue M. E., Fair Street Reformed, Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer and the Church of the Comforter.

The first half of the schedule will be finished this week. The sport is proving so popular that a new schedule is being made up for the second half, and the following churches have applied to join: Port Ewen Reformed, St. Remy Reformed, South Rondout M. E., St. James M. E.

There will be five games played each week and the winner of the second half will play the winner of the first half to decide the champion dart throwers.

It is planned that the deciding games will be played at the large Comforter Hall at which time a luncheon will be served.

EMERSON VICTORIOUS; SEXTON IS KAYOED

Fighting Freddie Martin at Poughkeepsie, his home town, Tuesday, Buddy Emerson, St. Remy pride, won the six round bout by a spurt in the closing session.

In the feature of the show, Phil Bronson, Connecticut middleweight, knocked out Eddie Sexton, clever Brooklyn negro in the fifth round. The meeting was their third in the first they drew, Sexton won the second and Bronson the last.

The boxing show was held for the unemployed, but instead of realizing a profit, there was a loss of $47.30, according to official reports investigated by Mayor Caven, who said he was "satisfied" with the accounting given by Al Irby, matchmaker. Receipts were $398; expenses, $445.30.

BIRKIE AND BRADDOCK FOR SUBSTITUTE BOUT

New York, Jan. 19 (AP).—Heavyweight instead of lightweights will hold the feature spot on Madison Square Garden's boxing program tomorrow. The scheduled scrap between Billy Petrolle, Fargo, N. D., veteran, and Bep Van Klaveren of Holland was called off yesterday when Van Klaveren turned up with a cracked knuckle and Petrolle's manager refused to accept any of the substitutes offered. Hans Birkie, California German, and James J. Braddock, popular Jersey City heavyweight, were promptly signed for a substitute battle.

Basketball Schedule.

Tonight, Pythian Hall, Port Ewen—Spinny Radio Five vs. Kingston Colonials, 8:30; Spinny Aces vs. Kingston Knights of Columbus, 7:30.

Friday, White Eagle Hall, Delaware avenue—Morgan Repealers vs. Delhi Big Five; Holy Cross Girls vs. Fullers. Entertainment and dancing.

Friday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A.—Grade School No. 8 vs. St. Mary's and No. 2 vs. No. 7.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Far be it from an amateur observer to say if rasslin's a racket or a good, clean sport, but it certainly has qualities to keep its participants young.

Take Ed (Strangler) Lewis. On second though, perhaps you had better not take him without some preliminary preparation.

Recently the old Strangler was said to be all washed up, finished, ready for the wrestling discard. It was a matter of record that he was 41 years old and had been moving with more or less speed across assorted mats in every section of the United States for 21 years.

Now the famous Kentuckian seems to boast the physical condition of a young fellow in his early 30's, trying to get along and in a fair way to do just that. He says with pride that his mental condition is just as good as the physical.

It was not so long ago that some of the experts on rasslin' ruled that the giant Lewis was null and void in a mat way, bad legs, bad eyes and no hope of regaining his former condition.

He tells the story:

"I began to believe it myself," he said, "or at least I wondered if these fellows were right and that after 21 years I was washed up. I went to New York to find out. Went to Gus Wilson's camp, worked five hours a day, chopped wood, took to the road, wrestled, did everything and soon I was in shape. I then tried the wrestling end, taking on seven of the best wrestlers in the world, in a series of testing matches and in two hours and 20 minutes disposed of all of them.

Amazed at Own Strength

"Then I knew the boys were wrong, that I was not finished by a long shot and I knew then just as certain as shooting that Ray Steele would have no chance against me. The night I met him, I was perfect. Never felt better, either physically or mentally, and I was amazed at my own strength.

"No, 41 years is not old in the wrestling game. I am good for many years yet.

"Londos? He's the acrobatic champion. I'll concede him that distinction, but I'm the wrestling champion. There's a difference."

Regardless of the championship, he holds or does not hold, Lewis has put on a remarkable physical comeback. He is in shape.

McGugin Stands Firm

Dan McGugin has shown that he is a brave man as well as a great football coach by assuming the presidency of the Football Coaches' Association. Five previous incumbents have lost their job while in office.

However, the Tennessee lawyer is safe enough at Vanderbilt. He is an institution at the Nashville university and as long as he cares to hold the job he will be the head coach of the Commodores. He is one of several coaches in the South who stand like a rock and all the onslaughts of an infuriated alumni cannot force them out.

It's rather refreshing in these days of victory mad football supporters to see the old guard, dying perhaps but never surrendering, on the football battlefields.

WRESTLING LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press.)

New York (St. Nicholas)—Gino Garibaldi, 214, Italy, threw Nick Condos, 212, Greece, 18:41.

Hempstead, N. Y.—Ralph Wilson, 203, Philadelphia, threw Ghafoor Khan, 210, India, 19:36.

Toronto—George Zarykoff, 206, Russia, defeated Howard Cantonwine, 239, Portland, Ore., (one fall each—Cantonwine disqualified on third).

George Gore, who broke into big league baseball under the great "Pop" Anson at Chicago in 1878, regards with disdain a "mitt" of the type worn by present day outfielders. He was made of sterner stuff.

Those who know Burleigh Grimes only as a hard-playing, hard-fighting ball player scarcely will recognize him in the bucolic setting above. Note the benign expression as he hurries along with a one-course dinner for some of his prize porkers. Yep, it's Burleigh.

Washington Hooks Win 1st League Game

At the Glasco School Wednesday night, Washington Hook & Ladder defeated Cornwell Hose, 27-25, in the first game of the Saugerties Firemanic League. The main scorer for the Washingtons was W. Vosdick with 10 and Harris for Cornwell with 8. Next Wednesday at Glasco, the second game in the league will be played between Washington Hook & Ladder, last season's champions, and Snyder Hose.

SERGEANT PHINNEY SPOKE TO PRESBYTERIAN MEN

Sergeant Charles Phinney of the Kingston police force gave an interesting address at the supper of the Men's Club of the Rondout Presbyterian Church held in the chapel of the church on Wednesday evening. Sergeant Phinney's address was instructive, humorous and entertaining. He told how the local department operated, and related a number of incidents of local police work. His address was listened to with close attention and he was heartily applauded. His hearers had a much better idea of the functions of a police force and its duties after they had heard the address than they ever had before. The supper, which was excellently cooked and served, had been prepared by a committee of the club. The club will meet again in February and a committee was appointed to make arrangements.

Clintondale, Jan. 19.—The regular meeting of the Clintondale Grange was held in the Grange Hall on Monday evening, January 16, when the 13th birthday of the Grange was celebrated. The newly elected officers took their places with Worthy Master Francis Gaffney, in charge. After the business of the meeting was finished a very delightful lecturer's hour in charge of Worthy Lecturer, Mrs. Hilda Simpson, was enjoyed. Mrs. Hurd read the Grange from the beginning. This was a paper which had been written concerning the Grange from the time it started in 1903 until the present time. This was greatly enjoyed. Brief addresses were made by charter members of the organization, John W. Weaver, first master, Mrs. Miles Elmendorf, Mrs. Kate Covert and Louis Covert. After short addresses Mrs. Vida Sutton, chairman of the Service and Hospitality Committee presented each of the charter members with carnations. At this point in the program the birthday cake made by Mrs. Vida Sutton and Mrs. Marion Jenkins was brought in by Miss Joan Geenen of the Juvenile Grange who presented it to the first master, Mr. Weaver to cut. Each member receiving a piece.

The future of the Grange was given by William Carter, who took the part of a crystal gazer, and told what he thought would happen in the near future. This was most amusing and highly appreciated. After this very delicious refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the committee in charge consisting of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Gaffney, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gaffney, Mr. and Mrs. Ransel Wager, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ackhart and Miss Helen Bruns.

The next regular meeting of the Grange will be held on Monday evening, February 6, when the program will be in keeping with Lincoln's Birthday, and will be presented by Miss Beatrice Carter and her 4-H Club Girls and Mrs. Edith Wager and the Juvenile Grange. At this time refreshments will be served by a committee consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Gershom Mount, Mrs. Lillian Gerard, Mrs. Marcia Mount, Lewis Sickler, Miss Irene Sickler, Miss Elizabeth Bernard, Louis Glenn and Winfield Conklin.

The regular meeting of Clintondale Juvenile Grange was held on Monday evening when Raymond Conklin was Master and Mrs. Edith Wager was Matron. Sixty-five members were present at the subordinate Grange and 17 members at the Juvenile Grange.

Being an Art Critic

To be a critic of fine arts one should know a good deal about the history of painting, sculpture, architecture and allied arts, should have visited some of the famous museums of Europe and the United States, be familiar with furniture of the different periods, tapestries, church ornaments and many other things, including history. The real art critic should be an individual of wide culture.

PAIN DEADENED CHEST COLDS LOOSENED WITHOUT DRUGS

Get quick relief from neuralgia pain, sciatica pain, neuritis pain, rheumatic pain, lame back, stiff neck, headache, strains and chest colds by rubbing plenty of Baume Bengue (pronounced Ben-Gay) on the spot. It doesn't plaster or stain. Rub it in till it sinks down and soothes the pain or breaks up the chest cold. Take no drugs, for any drug that is powerful enough to "deaden" pain or loosen a chest cold may not be good for you.

But beware of imitations. Ask your druggist for Baume Bengué by name (called "Ben Gay" in English). There are many analgesic baumes, mostly cheap imitations of Ben-Gay made out of synthetic drugs. That is why they are cheap. That is also why they are ineffective. Insist on Ben-Gay and you will get real results.

A minister consented to preach during his vacation in the country at an Episcopal church. When he arrived at the church on Sunday morning, the sexton welcomed him and said:

Sexton—Do you wish to wear a surplice, sir?

Minister—Why, my good man, I'm a Methodist. What do I know about surplices? All I know about is deficits.

Aches and Pains The man who maintains his poise is usually superior to most of those about him Husbands seem to be as big a gamble as taking snapshots, all you can do is to trust to luck they'll turn out good It's strange how so many people occupy their minds with things which really take up so little room The modern boy isn't so interested in making hay while the sun shines; he'd rather make love while the moon shines An optimist is a man who expects to find a clean pair of socks without holes The unwritten law of society seems to consider every man guilty until he is proven innocent The man who thinks twice before he speaks nowadays will find that the world is talking about something else The stork was the first aviator, and he took us all for a ride We wonder what sort of a place heaven would be if professional reformers could plan it

The Youngster's Lament

Mothers think boys should be clean as a saint,
They can see dirt where it just simply ain't;
I comb at my hair till it looks just so,
And she says, "You look like some old scare crow!"
It just seems to me that ears might have been Made without wrinkles to hold the dirt in;
And necks should be covered all over with hair
So Ma can't find dirt, 'cause she always looks there.
Morning and evening my Ma fairly wails,
"Ain't you ashamed of your hands and your nails?"
I can't see why folks fuss so about dirt,
What in the world does a little bit hurt?

An educated man is one who knows why it is wrong for a bum to steal a pie and right for a nation to steal a province.

Mother—But surely you didn't come right out and tell Jerry you loved him?

Pretty Daughter—No, mother, dear, he simply had to squeeze it out of me.

In the movies it's only the pretty girls that flee from fires and the villain's bullets. Homely girls never seem to do anything.

The old-fashioned girl is one who thinks that when a boy says "I love you"—he's proposing.

Sometimes a woman who boasts that she wouldn't marry the best man in the world finally marries one of the worst.

First College Student—I don't know how to fill out this question.

Second College Student—What is it?

First College Student—It says: "Who was your mother before she was married?" and I didn't have any mother before she was married.

Rule of Three

Forget yesterday.
Work today.
Plan for tomorrow.

She was the kind of woman who could be relied upon to say the wrong thing wherever she was. At a recent dinner she turned to her neighbor and said:

Woman—Doctor, can you tell me who that terrible-looking man is over there?

Doctor—I can. That is my brother.

Woman (after an awkward pause)—Oh, I beg your pardon. How silly of me not to have seen the resemblance.

A meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association was held at the school-house Friday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Paul Beaver, was in charge of the meeting. Plans were completed for a card party to be held in the near future. Mrs. Lester Ferguson is chairman of the committee in charge. Miss Elizabeth Plank of the service department of the Kingston Gas and Electric Company, was the guest speaker. Her subject was "Mother's Duty to Herself in Conserving Time and Energy." Miss Plank stressed the fact that more attractive ways of serving fresh vegetables to children induce them to like them and thereby improve their health. Miss Plank does not approve of mother spending her time and energy cooking individually but does approve of children being taught to like the foods that are good for them. Also, parents should be careful about expressing their dislikes of certain foods in the presence of the children as the children are apt to acquire the same dislikes. Miss Plank concluded her talk by demonstrating to the ladies present, the preparation of a delicious sandwich loaf, which was as follows: Remove the crust from an average sized loaf of bread. (Miss Plank suggested that the crust might be used for bread pudding) Cut the loaf lengthwise. Butter each slice generously. On the first slice spread a generous mixture of cottage cheese, pineapple and dates. The second slice was spread with pimentoes, the third slice was spread with a mixture of chopped cooked egg and mayonnaise. All slices were assembled in loaf shape and covered thickly with cottage cheese. Miss Plank was given a rising vote of thanks for her enlightening talk and demonstration. At the close of the meeting delicious refreshments were served and each one present sampled the sandwich loaf which proved to be as delicious as it was attractive. The next meeting will be held the second Friday in February and Mrs. M. H. Sharples is to be the speaker.
